MHC appears favorable to 602 Canterbury St.

Residents said they were concerned about how the work would affect the Canterbury Brook.

After some tweaking to the site, residents at the Mount Hope Canterbury Neighborhood Association (MHC) said they felt the proposed 14-unit building now at 602 Canterbury St. was much closer to what they wanted.

Originally, the site was proposed to have access on American Legion Highway, between the Scrub a Dub site and the Tabernacle Baptist Congregational Church. Developer Joseph De Gange of D2 Development said they spoke with the Boston Fire Department and they said the access from just Canterbury was adequate, so they could close the site off from American Legion.

“The last time we were here the project was sort of well-received, but the major concern was how vehicles were going to pass through the site,” he said. “But also, there’s a brook that runs right in front of the property and we were not sure how we were going to interact with the brook because we hadn’t consulted with the Fire Department first... Since then we have dotted all our I’s and crossed all our T’s and I can say there will be no access on American Legion, all of it will be on Canterbury. We will not develop around the brook and we’ve pushed the building back further towards Canterbury, away from the brook.”

Dana and Hart bridge work underway in HP

Jeff Sullivan
Staff Reporter

Work has begun on the improvements approved for both the Dana Avenue Bridge and the area around the Father Hart Bridge, both in Hyde Park.

The Father Hart work includes the signalization of both ends of the bridge on Milton/Neponset and Milton/Hyde Park Avenue, a change in the traffic pattern at Wolcott Square and interactive signals at all three intersections. Construction Management Director Katie Hill said since the three signals have to be able to interact with each other based on traffic patterns, they are starting with electrical work.

“We are starting right now with the underground work, the drainage, the conduit and the foundations for the signals,” she said. “The bulk of the sidewalk and roadway work will be done by the end of the construction season in November. We anticipate the new signals to be installed in the winter and we will complete the entire project by the end of May 2020.”

Hill said they are working to minimize traffic disruptions during construction, which is the whole point of the endeavor. She

Flashlight Walk draws good crowd in Jamaica Plain

On Thursday, July 18, officers from District E-13 in Jamaica Plain, the Bureau of Community Engagement, and the Command Staff joined Jamaica Plain residents for a Flashlight Walk near the Mildred C. Hailey Apartments. The walk wrapped up at Jackson Square Park, where participants visited the Score4More barbecue and enjoyed food, music, and dancing. Boston Police Department officers said they had a great time meeting and connecting with so many concerned and compassionate community members. To attend a future Flashlight Walk, please call the BPD at (617) 343-4345 or send an email to: meetinginfo@pd.boston.gov.

Goodwill opens in Hyde Park after 11 years

Goodwill employees, city officials and State Rep. Russell Holmes came out on Thursday to officially open the new Goodwill Store on River Street.

Despite a long hiatus after a groundbreaking took place 11 years ago with Mayor Thomas Menino, the Goodwill store in Hyde Park on River Street has finally opened.

“I’m so excited about how this store turned out,” said Boston Goodwill President and CEO Joanne Hilferty. “We really are committed to serving the communities of Boston and this is our first new Boston store in 10 years.”

Constructing a new building, according to Goodwill Boston spokesperson James Harder, is a bit unusual for Goodwill.

“Typically we go into an existing storefront, but this was built specifically for us. The Boston Medical Center is going

BPDA holds public meeting on 221-unit building

Richard Heath
Staff Reporter

Pine Street Inn and The Community Builders gave their first official joint venture presentation on July 18 for a six-story, 221-unit supportive and affordable residential building at 3368 Washington St.

They filed their Article 80 Large Project Review notification to the Boston Planning and Development Agency (BPDA) on July 7 and the agency wasted no time in setting a date for the required public hearing.

Dana Whiteside is the BPDA project manager for the development.

"This is the first official Article 80 meeting for 3368 Washington St.," he said. "But the proponents have done a fair amount of community outreach on their own volition."

The full house in the conference room of 3368 Washington St., that Pine Street has owned since 1997, was a different group of people than at the first public meeting the joint venture hosted on March 5. Since then they presented to the Jamaica Plain Housing Committee on March 19 and the Washington Street Business Association on May 14.

Whiteside put the joint venture into context, "This project is in a neighborhood where a lot is happening."

Since the meeting on March

5, the six story, 45-unit building planned by Boston Community Ventures on the opposite corner at 3353 Washington St. has been changed from rental to condominiums. Construction costs are being researched and pricing out contractors is underway. Directly opposite 3371-3375 Washington St. will soon be sold to JPND by City Realty and, around the corner, 197-201 Green St., after a long delay, received zoning approval on July 9.

Whiteside said that an 11-person Impact Advisory Group had been formed that included Emily Tabor of Glen Road, Carolyn Royce from ESNA, Denise Delgado of Egleston Square Main Streets, Washington Street property owner Monty Gold and John Linecum of Turtle Swamp Brewery.

Lyndia Downey is executive director of Pine Street Inn. "Pine Street is 50 years old this year," she said. "It's an interesting time for Pine Street. People look at us as a shelter, but we've been involved in supportive housing for a long time. We have 300 scattered site housing [units]."

"We've had a site on Green Street, which is an historic tax credit building."

Pine Street, through its Paul Sullivan Trust, acquired the old Bowditch School in 1990 and transformed it into 45 units of supportive housing.

Still the stereotype remains.

At the Businessman's Association meeting, one business owner said that Pine Street is a shelter in peoples minds.

"Pine Street is a negative connotation," he said. "Change the name to Jamaica Arms or Green Estates."

Downey admitted at the meeting that "an image change might be needed."

At the July 18 meeting Downey defined supportive housing.

"It's housing for people with some form of disability," she said. "They need some form of supportive services; some we'll have on site, others we can bring in."

Lydia Scott is the project manager for TCB. She described the basic program of the building.

"It will be six stories; 100 percent affordable," she said. "It's a quarter mile from Green Street station. There will be 221 units total, 141 for formerly homeless individuals. The rest will have a wide range of affordability from 30 percent to 80 percent area median income (AMI). The maximum monthly rent for a one bedroom at 60 percent AMI will be $1,333. The 141 supportive units will all be studios and that rent will be set at $662."

"We're looking at a large amount of public funding and an accelerated time frame," Scott said. "We hope for construction drawings ready in the spring of 2020." Eric Robinson of RODE Architects explained the design of the building.

"This is something different," he said. "It's a tall order. We want a great civic project for the neighborhood."

RODE is also the architects of 3200 Washington St., so it has experience in doing something different.

"The building is 65 feet from the base," Robinson said. "We want to carve out spaces from the massing to create more natural light in the building with set backs and cut outs."

"The supportive housing units are small," said Robinson. "So there will be larger windows for more natural light."

The sidewalk will be 13 feet and the entrance will have an additional 11-foot wide plaza. The entrance to the Pine Street offices and housing units will be through a one-story glass pavilion set against a deeply setback rhythmic wall of wide windows.

There will also be a wide interior south facing court between the two wings of the building. There will be roof garden sitting areas on the one story interior entrance and on the 6th floor.

Robinson said that the architects will meet with the Boston Civic Design Commission on July 23 where the materials and design will be reviewed.

The building will house two communities-formerly homeless and low and moderate incomes. The first question was asked about whether they would be separate. Downey was honest.

"Right now there is a physical separation," she said. "This decision was not made lightly, but was based on our own experience of serving a supportive population."

"The common areas are where the different groups will come together," Downey said. "The idea of the common areas, the terraces, that's where people connect. Social spaces versus unit to unit."

Union Avenue sees itself as the bullseye in the building boom of Green and Washington Street. Rueben Van Leuwwen lives on Union Avenue and he pointed out that he lives directly behind 197-201 Green St.

"I'm very excited about the move towards more affordability," he said. "But I'm nervous about the changes around us. That's a lot of units, a lot of cars."

His neighbor Rachel agreed. "I share Rueben's concerns about density. One of like six buildings going up all at the same time, right across from Mordy's building. High end. All going to be million dollar condos. Its overwhelming, it's scary."

George Wright Concert Series presents Alexis Lee

Ariane Komyati
Staff Reporter

After a long day of sweltering 90 degree heat, community members decided to chill out on the George Wright Golf Course patio and listen to a live concert on July 19. The free concert featured singer/songwriter Alexis Lee and guitarist Kevin Scollins. This Boston Parks and Recreation event is one of three "George Wright Concert Series on the Patio" this summer. "It's a J Thing!" will be performing Aug. 1, and Sam Robbins will be performing on Aug. 22.

Residents came out despite the heat on Friday to see local performers Alexis Lee and Sam Robbins.

Lee and Scollins have been performing together for nearly eight months. Lee sings and plays keys, while Scollins performs on the guitar. Scollins is from Foxboro and graduated from the Berklee College of Music. Lee is originally from Rhode Island and usually performs in venues in Providence, but she also performs in Boston "pretty regularly".

"I have been singing for over 14 years," she stated. "I perform a mix of jazz, R&B, with some original songs I wrote."

Alexis Lee and Kevin Scollins performed from 6:30 pm until 9 pm. As the sun set and the temperature cooled, more and more people came out to the patio to listen. Lee performed some of her own songs at the Wright Golf Course, which are titled "Illusion", "Over It", and "Fade". While listening to the live music, families and friends had a drink or a bite to eat and chatted with one another. Food and drinks were served by the Wright Golf Course Grille, which had a special menu for music night that included lobster rolls, buffalo wings and onion rings.

"It's a little warm out here, but there is a nice breeze," Lee noted in between her performances.

Marchelle Jacques-Yard, the Outreach Coordinator and Partnership Manager for the Boston Parks and Recreation Department, and Jennifer Widener, the Program Manager for the Boston Parks and Rec Department, attended the free concert as well.

"The George Wright Concert Series is a part of our ParkARTS program," explained Jacques-Yard. "When this patio was renovated three years ago, we wanted to create a way for golfers and neighbors to enjoy the ambiance. So we started the George Wright Concert Series on the Patio."

Many of the artists and bands have performed in a ParkARTS Outdoor Neighborhood Concert in the past. "Sam Robbins is a crowd favorite," remarked Jacques-Yard. "But we try to diversify the artists as well. This is Alexis Lee's first time performing with us."

There are many free concerts throughout the city of Boston during the summer. On July 25, Soul City Band will be performing in Blackstone Square in the South End. Magnum Sound will perform by the Clifford Playground in Roxbury on July 26. On July 31, The Rebels will be performing a Tom Petty tribute in the Medal of Honor Park in South Boston. The Woo Factor will be performing by the Hunt Playground in Mattapan.

Widener also remarked that the Boston Parks and Recreation Department provides summer fitness classes. "There are 30 classes a week, all over the city of Boston," she stated. These classes include zumba, cardio, salsa dancing, strength training, and afrobeat.

The Boston Parks and Recreation Department also provides free junior golf lessons at the George Wright Golf Course. This first-rate program for youth ages 7-14 provides basic instruction in the fundamentals of golf. The lessons take place Tuesdays through Thursdays until Aug. 15, with a class at 9 a.m. and a class at 10:30 a.m. Equipment is provided and pre-registration is required. For more information, contact Jennifer Widener at 617-961-3047 or jennifer.widener@boston.gov.

The ParkARTs program also includes children's arts workshop summer series takes place in July and August, all over the city of Boston. It includes painting, jewelry making, mask making, and much more. The Children's Artists in Residence program will run until Aug. 16. Three Parkway residents killed in NH crash

The New Hampshire State Police identified three victims from the Parkway on Monday who died in a vehicle collision in the state. The collision occurred on Sunday around 11:30 a.m. on Interstate 89 in New London. The victims were identified as Sharon Nawrocki, 44, of West Roxbury, Angelo Rossi, 57, of Roslindale and Kelly Rossi, 56, of Roslindale. According to police, the trio's vehicle was traveling north bound on 89 in the left lane and police believe another vehicle may have merged into the left lane in front of their vehicle, which, police believe, swerved and lost control. The trio's vehicle left the interstate and rolled over off the highway an "undetermined number of times." Two were ejected from the vehicle and pronounced deceased at the scene, while a third unidentified person succumbed to injuries later in a local hospital. Police stated they are still trying to identify the person operating the vehicle, while the driver of the other vehicle stayed on scene and cooperated with police. Police stated that at the time of the crash, impairment did not appear to be an issue. A Mass of Christian Burial will be celebrated in the Holy Name Church, 1689 Centre Street, West Roxbury, Tuesday, July 30 at 10 a.m. for all three victims. Visiting hours in the Holy Name Church, Monday, July 29th from 3:00 p.m. to 8:00 p.m. Relatives and friends invited. Interment St. Joseph Cemetery. A small memorial has been set up at the West Roxbury Dunkin Donuts on Centre Street where Nawrocki used to work.

To evict or not to evict

There exist continual tug-of-wars (or is it tugs-of-war) in our age: Pepsi vs. Coke, New York vs. Boston, Martha's Vineyard vs. Nantucket, Mike's vs. Modern Pastry's cannoli(s), gin-and-tonic vs. vodka tonic, anti-abortion vs. pro-abortion, martinis shaken vs. stirred. A more existential one is landlord vs. tenant.

I've been on the tenant side. Having first moved back to Boston in '74, we lived in an apartment building straddling the Mattapan-Hyde Park line. With all sorts of building code violations, we moved out before our lease was up, only to be dragged into Housing Court. There a so-called compassionate judge ruled for the monolithic plaintiff—actually a large company—citing that we failed to notify the company with registered mail. If only he had taken the time to visit the building, he would have seen the gross violations that increased over time during our less-than-a-year stay.

A city councilor has recently called for a hearing of sealing eviction court records for residents more than 20 years old. It would not have affected me because the court case was 44 years ago, and technically it was not an eviction: the security deposit was left to cover the last month's "rent."

The proposal would make it more difficult to check a prospective tenant's status. A saving grace in her proposal is that it goes back two decades. No landlord in our city of many two- and three-family houses should have to take a risk these days because of the difficulties of evicting obstreperous tenants.

Years ago there was a terrible Roslindale case in which an aging mother and her developmentally challenged son rented out a second floor to a section 8 family. More and more family members kept moving in, the noise became louder, and finally she decided to evict, only to learn that an eviction of an insolvent family is not easy as it initially seems, with months passing and no rent being paid. When moving out day finally occurred, the apartment was trashed and restitution never occurred, neither from the family nor government agency.

I hoped that the above was a one-and-done occurrence but with a lawyer friend whose niche is taking bad tenants to court for eviction there is the realization that tenant abuse occurs more frequently. As a very compassionate woman in her personal life and very busy in her professional life, she justifies her strong stance against terrible tenants by asserting that she is increasing the quality of life for the other tenants—fewer drugs, less noise, etc.

My Kind of Town/
Joe Galeota

No tenant will ever match the integrity of George Hogarty, a tenant in my father's house for half a century. This postal carrier's rent was always on time, the noise from his family of five was kept to a minimum, and he always helped to take out the trash/ashes and shovel snow. What a friend and tenant!

If the City Council adheres to sealing evictions, I hope that it is beyond the 20-year line. No family should have to wear—to paraphrase Nathaniel Hawthorne—a scarlet E for the rest of their lives because they encountered financial problems years ago. Or should restitution to the offended landlord be part of the package?

Letters to the Editor

JULY 11'S BULLETIN WAS A COMEDIAN'S DREAM

To the Editor:

There were so many funny articles beginning, with Joe's mishmash of praise for traditional families, income and location, location, location. There was a blatant absence of self discipline, hard work and dedication in producing results. Yea, I heard you exempt parochial and private schools as if most of my neighbors aren't living in three job households to send their kids to these excluded schools AND paying for the schools that you say would work better if more money was just given to moms and dads. Very funny, Joe's sounding/looking more like Bernie every day. As long as you brought it up, I can't help but comment on the new Superintendent with a six figure take home and a new home every year in a different town to better learn and understand the needs of the city. My God, is there anybody in City Hall with half a brain and an ounce of common sense with enough courage to stand up and scream; Stop this Madness? Just ride the T and you'll learn everything the Committee's job description didn't tell you. I'll leave this topic by recommending Mattapan followed by Dorchester as the beginning of the Super's Boston based zip trip.

Now this one is very funny; chief of Environment, Energy and Open Space. I assume the primary responsibility of this position is to find any open space that can be filled with salt box housing. I don't know why he came to WR; we're running out of open space here as demonstrated at 45 Spring St. where I watched the backhoe tearing out trees in the minimal open space, i.e., courtyard, in the rear of the building which since the May 23 edition has been filled with unplanned, and neighborhood opposed units. Which gets me to the real purpose of my note which is to apologize to the local businesses who will suffer the most but, thinking only of myself, my property value and lifestyle I have to switch to supporting lane reduction as it will certainly reduce traffic, thereby keeping the riff raff. So OK, let's all listen to the nutty professor and do something stupid.

However, I did find myself wondering "why so much traffic" and concluded that the Parkway and Center St. are the "best" routes to the behemoth of a hospital zone built around Beth Israel, to include the Faulkner. I wouldn't be surprised if 20 to 40% of traffic is to and from these institutions.

A/B Mobility Study Aims to address transportation issues

Ricardo Guillaume
Staff Reporter

On Monday, July 22, Allston-Brighton residents gathered at the Josephine A. Fiorentino Community Center to receive an update on the Allston-Brighton Mobility Study from the Boston Planning and Development Agency (BPDA). The purpose of the study is to “develop actionable recommendations to improve mobility, safety for all modes, and quality of life for the Allston-Brighton neighborhood.” Deputy Director Of Transportation And Infrastructure Planning John “Tad” Read led the presentation.

“This is an inter-departmental effort. The BPDA works very closely with other city departments such as Boston Transportation, Public Works Department and the Disabilities Commission,” Read said.

The study is set to utilize corridor analysis and targeted analysis. Corridor analysis is a comprehensive review of transportation conditions and it will look at Harvard Avenue, Brighton Avenue, Faneuil Street, Lincoln Street and others. Targeted analysis – a focused review of transportation conditions at a square or intersection – will be implemented to analyze Oak Square, Union Square, I-90 Pedestrian Bridge, Cleveland Circle, and more. The study started in the fall of 2018 with an 18-month timeline but Read revealed that the project was extended by three months.

“Originally we wanted to be done by the spring of 2020 but we’re kicking off a new study for Western Avenue called the Western Avenue Corridor Study so the two studies can be informal,” Read said.

The study began by surveying residents about their concerns with congestion issues. Resident responses were turned into heat maps.

“So basically people made comments about motor vehicle issues, they made comments about the price of transportation, pedestrians, and then what we did was combine all of those heat maps and began to see where they came together,” Read said. “And then you can see the intersections: The intersection of Harvard and Comm’ Ave, the intersection of Cambridge Street and Harvard Street, and certain areas, not surprisingly light up. And the public comments we got ultimately served as the foundation for what we presented in the winter, which is priority relocation.”

Residents said one of their major concerns was illegal cut-through traffic on one-way streets, as well as pedestrian and bicycle safety concerns.

Some of the main goals of the priority relocation method are allocating space to safely accommodate diverse users (drivers, pedestrians, bicyclists), identifying corridors and intersections for priority accommodations of buses, and mitigating developmental impacts to transportation. Currently there are 12 planned improvements in the works, but for many residents the improvements aren’t coming soon enough.

Tracy Wu has lived on Portsmouth Street since 2012 and has been in touch with the Boston Transportation Department for four years about commuters cutting through her main road while navigating their way from Lincoln Street onto I-90. She said she has data that shows approximately 3,000 vehicles a day drive through going east on Waverly Street or south on Portsmouth Street.

“Ninety five percent of the households signed our petition to look into this and we found that out of the 3,000 cars, 1,850 cut through our street every weekday,” Wu said. “[Portsmouth] Playground is being affected. [BTD] isn’t doing its job.”

Allston Civics Association president Anthony D’Isidoro raised concerns about the development boom-taking place in the city and its ramifications for residents.

“There’s intense development plans in the area on both sides of Everett Street,” D’Isidoro said. “I really think based on the timing of these projects and when construction will be starting that we really need to prioritize the Allston Square area, Harvard Ave, Cambridge Street, Franklin Street, Braintree Street because that potentially could be a very critical bottleneck unless we take some steps now to make that traffic move along better.”

Massachusetts State Sen. William Brownsberger stopped by to hear residents’ concerns and offer his solution to making roads safer: legislation filed to enable “automated enforcement.”

Brownsberger’s bill, S.1376 states that a city or town that accepts it may “employ an automated road safety camera system as a means of promoting traffic safety” and utilize “camera enforceable violations.” This means that a camera sensor can produce digital photographs and may record and cite you for breaking the speeding limit, failing to stop at a signal at an intersection, making a right turn on a red light where prohibited, and passing a school bus when its flashers are on.

“We got a lot of comments online and people are afraid of privacy invasions and of the ‘gotcha!’ that people will be lined up around the courthouse for driving 26 miles an hour,” Brownsberger said. “But my thought is that the best way to move that forward is to start by focusing on things that everybody is concerned about like blocking the box.”

Representing the city with Read was Allston-Brighton Liaison for the Mayor’s Department of Neighborhood Services Conor Newman and Transportation Planning fellow Jack Halverson. Development Planner Jesus Cuellar and Associate Planner Conor Selmer represented Kittelson & Associates, Inc., the consultant team collaborating with the city on analysis.

BPDA and Kittelson are halfway through their study timeline and plan to submit their final transportation action plan by Summer 2020. The next meetings are planned for Tuesday, July 30th at the Jackson Mann Auditorium from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. and on Wednesday, July 31st at the Brighton Public Library from 4 p.m. to 5:30 p.m.

HEY BOSTON, GET YOUR TRASH AND RECYCLING OUT BY 6 A.M.!

Starting July 1, we'll be starting collection of residential trash at 6 a.m. instead of 7 a.m. This will increase efficiency in the morning and decrease congestion in the afternoon.

BCYF NEIGHBORHOOD BLOCK PARTIES KICK OFF

Mark your calendar and bring your friends and family to a fun and free Neighborhood Block Party and learn more about your neighborhood community centers! Select Thursday nights in July and August from 5:00 to 7:00 p.m., the BCYF Neighborhood Block Parties will offer a variety of free activities including music, a cookout, activities, swimming (as indicated below), and resource tables from many City of Boston departments and other agencies with lots of great information to share and giveaways. This summer's schedule is as follows:

July 25: BCYF Tynan Community Center, 650 East Fourth Street, South Boston

August 8: BCYF Marshall Community Center, 35 Westville Street, Dorchester

In the case of rain or other weather issues, please check BCYF's social media pages (@BCYFCenters) for updates. The Block Parties are generously supported by the Foundation for BCYF.

BCYF GIRLS NIGHTS

Boston Centers for Youth & Families (BCYF) invites Boston girls to register now to attend one or all Girls Nights, a series of free girls-only events throughout the summer. All activities are designed to bring girls together in a safe, non-competitive environment where they can be themselves, meet other girls their age and engage with role models. BCYF Girls Nights also connects girls with resources and opportunities while they enjoy a positive and fun experience with their peers. Last summer over 1,500 girls participated in BCYF's Girls Nights.

to be next door," he said.

State Rep. Russell Holmes said he grew up in the area and rode the school bus by this lot every day. He said even then it was a concerning property, but he said he's excited to see it now flourishing.

I have been worried for many years about what would happen to this site, so the efforts of Goodwill and (Developer Todd Finard) and his team are much appreciated," he said. "When you have Goodwill come in here and be an anchor store, when you think about what they're doing not just here in Hyde Park but around this entire country, it's amazing."

Holmes added that he and his family shop at Goodwill, and he sees the company's efforts everywhere.

"My wife, when we travel one of the first things she does is look up a Goodwill store," he said.

Holmes said he was glad to see so many members of the community, including the East River Street Neighborhood Association, at the event.

"You are really who makes this community as strong as it is," he said. "It is my honor with State Sen. Rush, with the Mayor and all of us... You can already see folks lining up. The need in this neighborhood is great. The fact that my wife chooses to shop at this place speaks to the quality of the products and the people who work here."

Hilferty said the work that has gone into this store was great, and it's now paying off for both Goodwill and the community.

"Our employees here in Hyde Park, many of whom are from Hyde Park, have been working diligently to get this store open," she said. "The neighborhood knows because every time I'm here there are people peaking in, knocking on the windows wanting to know if we're ready to start, so now we are."

Holmes said Hyde Park has a good partner in Hilferty.

Finard said the project was originally proposed in 2010, but he said the work has finally come to fruition.

"I have chills," he said. "I have chills because 11 years ago we had a groundbreaking for this development. Mayor Menino was there, we were feeling pretty proud of ourselves that we were about to embark on knocking down a blighted factory and doing something that we felt as a developer was a dream project, where you could take something that didn't have much value, knock it down and build something up that had a great deal of value and would contribute to the ethos of the neighborhood and make it a better place to be."

Hilferty said she works with Goodwill not only to provide a service but to help a community grow.

"Goodwill's mission, people think of us as retail, but our mission is to help individuals with barriers to achieve independence and dignity through work," she said. "A store like this creates jobs in the community, it offers training opportunities for our participants, and it also offers the community a way to support their fellow community members by donating things they don't need."

said they will not allow disruptive roadwork during peak traffic hours, which are before 9:30 a.m. or after 3:30 p.m. She also said the work will not disrupt access to the local businesses at Wolcott Square. She added during sidewalk work there will be pedestrian by-passes set up.

Boston Transportation Department Design Engineer Zach Wassmuth said the new signals at the bridge and at Wolcott Square will be able to talk to each other to provide more efficient movement through the area. He also said the road at Wolcott Square in front of Olympic Pizza, Top of the Line Barber Shop and Richard's Liquors will be designated a one-way.

Bus traffic will also be changed, in that the bus stop will be moved to that one-way from Hyde Park Avenue. Hill added all parking in front of the businesses where the bus stop will be moved to will be replaced on Hyde Park Avenue, the location of the current bus stop. Wassmuth said the bus stop on the south side of Milton Street on Hyde Park Avenue will be moved to the north side of the Milton/Hyde Park Avenue intersection.

Hill said they are working with the MBTA on when those changes to the bus stop will happen, and that the MBTA has its own notification system with fliers to be posted on both the new and old bus stops.

Bridge Engineer Joseph Fleury discussed the work going on at the Dana Avenue Bridge. He said currently, as many temporary light up signs are signaling to drivers, traffic has been halted on the bridge as they work. He said the demolition of the current bridge is done and they are working on details before the new bridge arrives.

"This week they're pouring a little bit of new concrete on the substructure to get to the correct grade and we're planning to set the new arch pieces the week of Aug. 5," he said. "We'll be doing that for a couple of weeks there and we plan to have the road open by Labor Day, with the entire project done by the end of September."

While residents have been seen trying to access the bridge and having to turn around, Fleury said there have been no safety issues or incidents he's aware of.

CRONIN

George F. Jr. Age 81, of West Roxbury, passed away peacefully on July 19, 2019, surrounded by family. He was born to parents George and Helen Cronin of West Roxbury in 1937. He attended Boston College High School, the University of Notre Dame, received a Master's degree in Business Administration from Suffolk University, and a law degree from Boston University School of Law. He was chosen "most reliable" by his undergraduate class at Notre Dame and was elected president of his law school class. George is survived by his wife of 55 years, Mary Louise (Rando) and his four children: George F. Cronin, and his wife Leigh, daughters Maribeth Fitzgerald and husband Edward, Kerry Cronin and husband Dr. Elliott Martin, and Andrea and Sean Flaherty. In addition, George leaves his loving grandchildren: Teddy, Patrick, Harrison, Emily, Mary Louise, Elizabeth and Audrey, all of West Roxbury. George is also survived by his sister, Patricia (Cronin) Collins, niece Lynne and her family. In addition to his love of family, George was devoted to public service and helping others. He practiced law for decades, serving as a strong advocate for those who needed a voice in the pursuit of justice. George also spent many years serving in various capacities in state government.

In 1963, he began a long and rewarding career at the State House, working for Governor Endicott Peabody. In 1964, George was elected to the Governor's Council, motivated by his belief in the role that government plays in assisting the disadvantaged. He served with distinction until 1982, when he resigned his seat to become the Governor's Council's Administrative Secretary, a position that he held and was deeply committed to until his death. George's creative spirit led to his life-long passion as a collector of books and art. He made many close friends while traveling throughout New England to collectors' shows. George loved to surprise his friends, children, and grandchildren with his latest discoveries. A Funeral Mass was held on Wednesday, July 24th in Holy Name Church. Beverly Sprague. He grew up in Hanover and Norwell, MA, and graduated from Norwell High School in 1977. He had a wonderful childhood growing up on the South Shore and had many delightful times with his parents, sister and brother. They all share fond memories of exploring the woods of Hanover, enjoying Cape Cod in the summertime, and adventures with gram and grandpa. Jonathan lived his adult life in Boston, MA. For most of his professional life, Jonathan worked in traditional commercial printing. Following his printing career, he held clerical positions at Genzyme (Cambridge, MA) and Massachusetts General Hospital (Boston, MA). Jonathan was a talented artist and enjoyed his hobby of painting serene landscapes and natural scenery. He loved to travel and was fortunate to have shared amazing adventures with Judy seeing the world. He was especially enamored with the natural beauty of the Oregon Coast. Jonathan was an accomplished keyboard player, and spent many years performing with various bands in the Boston area until the early 1990s. He loved living in Hyde Park the past 20 years, and enjoyed painting, music, reading, good food and drink, watching his favorite TV shows, and spending time with his wife and 2 cats. He will be missed by all. A Celebration of Life is being planned by the family for a date to be announced in the near future, and friends and family will be welcome to attend. Donations may be made in Jonathan's name to the Animal Rescue League of Boston.

WALSH

Dorothy Ann (Whipple) Of Roslindale, passed away peacefully on Thursday, July 18, 2019, at age 82, with her loving husband of 60 years, retired B.P.D. Patrolman Thomas G. Walsh, at her side. She is survived by her three children, Donna Hannon and her husband Thomas of Roslindale, Christine Leverone and her husband Robert of Franklin, Joseph Walsh of Salem, NH and his partner LeeAnn Bergstrom. Dorothy will be dearly missed by her seven grandchildren and two great-grandchildren, Erin Hannon-Foley and her husband Joe, T.J. Hannon and his wife Tabitha, Robert Jr. and Christopher Leverone, Diana, Kayla and Michael Walsh, and Joey and Scarlett Foley. She is also survived by her beloved sister, Frances Morrison, brothers and sisters-in-law, and an abundance of nieces and nephews. Dorothy grew up on Mission Hill and graduated from Mission High, class of 1955. That's where she met the love of her life, Tom, and they married in 1959. Early in her career in the 1970s, Dorothy worked as a secretary for the Mozart Elementary School in Roslindale. In the 1980s, she worked as secretary to the Dean of Boston University's School of Nursing. However, it was in 1998 that Dorothy found the perfect job match as an administrative assistant at St. John Chrysostom Church in West Roxbury, where she was often the first point of contact in the parish center until her retirement in 2015. A Mass of Christian Burial was held on Tuesday, July 23rd in St. John Chrysostom Church, at 10:00 am. Interment Mt. Benedict Cemetery. Stained glass showcased at West Roxbury Library

West Roxbury resident Kira Seamon was recently selected as the Artist of the Month at the West Roxbury Public Library. Her exhibit, entitled "Stained Glass Sky" showcases autumn trees in a unique fashion ranging from the delicate to the dramatic. Seamon's kaleidoscope photography recombines the leaves and branches of those colorful trees into new shapes and patterns reminiscent of stained glass. A glass case in the Art Gallery gets special treatment and will host Seamon's butterfly kite and a plethora of silk flowers for a small indoor summer garden feel.

And then I thought I heard of a proposal to build a lot more saltboxes on the Parkway and thought wouldn't it be interesting if the city put up a large parking garage which the city and institutions could run shuttles to and from to reduce the volume of traffic into the heart of the city. You know, like in Alewife; less traffic, less congestion and less pollution.

Another easy fix that could limit future traffic would be to cease construction of all new hospital and educational institutions with the exception of a Boston West Education Complex at Millenium Park, that is.

Also, since I haven't heard any comments concerning many WR residents complaining loudly about JP and Rosie people hogging the mike at a WEST ROXBURY town meeting, I propose that at ALL future meetings concerning West Roxbury and its residents, mike time be restricted to West Roxbury residents who want to voice an opinion before any nonresidents are given a chance. Trust me, you won't see me at any Rozzie or JP meetings or events because after 15 minutes of Homer on his bike rights I was getting ill; which leads me to: I know this is really a citywide effort to eliminate cars and put us on bikes or scooters; well I say I'll be happy to give up 25% of the roadways when bicycles are licensed, inspected and pay an excise tax to support their 25% of road expenses. Otherwise, stay on the side streets.

THOSE AGAINST ARE THE MAJORITY

To the Editor:

I read your letters stating how excited people are about the new school coming to 361 Belgrade Ave. First, I want to remind everyone a decision has not been made yet.

All the studies that have been done regarding our concerns have been sugarcoated (lied) saying the school won't be a problem. I don't think so! We were told that safety should not be a concern because students know how to cross the street. It's our neighbors, elderly and young kids that don't go to your school that we worry about, just one example of a concern that will only get worse if the school gets built. I also want to mention how much higher the chances of accidents, injury or even death will be when you put over 600 people in that very dangerous intersection and surrounding streets. The injury or loss of life is not worth putting this school at this location. If it happens we will hold everyone responsible, even the Mayor if they vote for this school. Life-long residents will sell and move if this school goes up. I would rather see condos go up; at least everyone in the building is not going and coming back at the same time. There will be more student cars than they tell you that will be parking in our already limited crowded spaces. Regarding the MBTA commuter rail, no commitment has been issued or explained as to how this is all going to work. Parents with jobs to go to won't wait in line for the drop off; they will find any area to let their kids off. Belgrade is going to be backed up with MBTA buses and large trucks making deliveries. We also need to check addresses and ID's of everyone who says they live in this area. I could go to any town meeting and say I live there.

Listen to the concerns of people living in the surrounding neighborhood. Let it be known I don't speak for the wonderful people who are in favor of the school, I just think we (against) are the overwhelming majority. The ones that go to this school as well as staff that don't live here should not be counted.

along American Legion, sometimes underground, and architect Peter Vanko said they are now able to reconstruct the brook for more greenspace on the project.

“We had to do an environmental study to figure out legally what this water body is, and it is a brook and it technically falls into a category that requires some reconstruction,” he said. “Our proposal will include some reconstruction of that brook because right now there is no good definition of what it is.”

Vanko said that currently erosion is a big problem with the brook, mainly due to increased flow from stormwater during heavy weather events.

“The bank that is nearest to our building will have rocks installed that will eventually be overgrown with native plants,” he said. “The idea here is that the greenery will also be kind of like a small park that is not necessarily off limits for the public.”

The building will be set back 65 feet from American Legion Highway. Roslindale Representative for the Mayor’s Office of Neighborhood Services Joseph Coppinger said currently there is a two phase plan for Canterbury Street, the first involving a series of bumpouts at the intersection of Bourne Street and Canterbury and then the installation of five-foot sidewalks. He said this will most likely result in the street becoming a one-way, as it is pretty narrow even without the five-foot sidewalks.

Thadine Brown of the City’s Community Preservation Committee also came to share with the MHC information on the Community Preservation Act Fund, for which any neighborhood organization could apply for capital projects for open space and recreation, historic preservation or affordable housing. MHC Chair Rick Yoder said it was a great opportunity for the first round of funding to get more trees planted at the Mount Hope/Calvary Cemetery, and he encouraged neighbors to apply for more projects. Resident Jessica Mink said she and residents from Hyde Park are working on a proposal to make use of Crane Ledge, on the Hyde Park/Roslindale line, for the first collaborative project between two neighborhoods.

The group also discussed the proposed marijuana facility on the City Farm site at 717-721 American Legion Hwy. State Rep. Russell Holmes said despite some neighbors being opposed to the facility on principle, he felt it was the best location for such a facility.

“Still I hear ‘we just don’t want a marijuana place in our neighborhood,’” he said.

Holmes pointed out that the city voted 60 percent in support of legalizing marijuana, and though he has heard from many residents that they do not support the facility, he has heard from those who do support it and he said he has seen the developer, Silver Therapeutics, be extremely responsive to community concerns.

Yoder and MHC Chair Lisa Beatman said they have been working on this issue and encouraged residents to set up a petition to further the neighborhood’s bargaining position with Silver. Beatman said Silver had agreed to pay $10,000 annually to the neighborhood group, but she said they are now negotiating for more funds. She said a Jamaica Plain store is offering $500,000 over five years.

“The aim is to get to a point where they’re likely to agree and we think enough of this community might be okay with it,” she said. “As of today they said $125,000 over five years. We don’t know what other good neighbor agreements are, but it’s really likely the store in Jamaica Plain might be the only ones offering that much, but it’s a wonderful precedent.”

Coppinger also said during the meeting that the Mayor’s Office will be opposing the proposed project at 26-38 Stella Rd., which the neighborhood was against because of the loss of trees.

Daniel Smith lives on Forest Hills Street.

“If the goal is to integrate the world of the homeless, this is not the way to do it.” he said. “One hundred and forty one studios. Single homeless people. TCB is cramming as many units as possible. This does not allow for social mobility. This is the lazy way to solve the homeless problem by building them all here. I’m worried that this is being rammed through.”

Pat Feeley of Paul Gore Street was having none of those arguments.

“You’re way off base,” she said. “This kind of housing is needed. It’s a very good idea. What the city is doing for housing is pitiful. Totally inadequate. I worked in health care for years. Medical techs, LPNS, they’re priced out; they’re moving to Norton. Wilmington. People need Boston homes for Boston people.”

Tom Kieffer of the Southern Jamaica Plain Health Center was in the forefront to preserve the Bowditch School for low income people.

“There’s a lot of talk about the concentration of poor people,” he said. “Go down to Green Street and look at the school.”

Marie Turley of Union Avenue waited until the very end. She tried to be conciliatory by couching her objections in terms of architectural design. “This is a unique opportunity to find a new balance,” she said. “This is a working class community. This is an opportunity to be welcoming. The main entrance looks like any hotel in America. Gives us at least a bench.”

“I don’t want to hold up this project,” she said. “I don’t want to be anti-affordability. But try to get larger units. Try to be part of the neighborhood.”

Marie Mercurio of Boston Community Ventures was at the meeting and spoke with The Bulletin the next day.

“Of course we’re supportive,” she said, “We’re very optimistic. It’s exactly the type of revitalization of the Washington Street corridor that Plan JP Rox envisioned.” “We’re providing one type of product to the housing market and they’re providing another.” “Mordy[Mordechai Levin] is extremely optimistic,” Mercurio said. “He thinks people come on hard times for a lot of reasons.” Whiteside concluded the meeting by saying that another public hearing on 3368 Washington St. would be held in the next two or three weeks.

SUFFOLK Division Docket No. SU18D1924DR

DIVORCE SUMMONS BY PUBLICATION AND MAILING
Garfield Davis vs. Jasmine Bell
 Suffolk Probate and Family Court
 24 New Chardon St.
 Boston, MA 02114

To the Defendant:
 The Plaintiff has filed a Complaint for Divorce requesting that the Court grant a divorce for irretrievable breakdown.
 The Complaint is on file at the Court.
 An Automatic Restraining Order has been entered in this matter preventing you from taking any action which would negatively impact the current financial status of either party. SEE Supplemental Probate Court Rule 411.
 You are hereby summoned and required to serve upon: Garfield Davis, 36A Tileston St., Mattapan, MA 02126 your answer, if any, on or before 08/15/2019. If you fail to do so, the court will proceed to the hearing and adjudication of this action. You are also required to file a copy of your answer, if any, in the office of the Register of this Court.

Witness, Hon. Brian J. Dunn, First Justice of this Court.
