Hyde Park dedicates bridge to Grimke sisters

Elisa Birdseye, Curator of the Hyde Park Historical Society, spoke during the dedication of how the Grimke Sisters affected local politics in Hyde Park.

Despite the freezing weather, more than 100 residents and community members gathered on Dana Avenue for a ribbon cutting ceremony on Saturday, dedicating the new Angelina and Sarah Grimke Bridge in Hyde Park. The Grimke sisters were Hyde Park residents who fought tirelessly for the equality of all people in the abolitionist and women's rights movements.

The ceremony featured speakers Tania Del Rio, the Executive Director of the Mayor's Office of Women's Advancement, Boston Mayor Marty Walsh, District 5 City Councilor Tim McCarthy, Barbara Lee, the Founder and President of the Barbara Lee Family Foundation, Catherine Allgor, the President of the Massachusetts Historical Society, and Elisa Birdseye, Curator of the Hyde Park Historical Society.

Sarah and Angelina Grimke grew up in a wealthy, slave owning family in South Carolina. When the sisters were in their twenties, they could no

BPDA approves 99-105 Fairmount

The Boston Planning and Development Agency (BPDA) met last week and voted to approve the proposed project at 99-105 Fairmount Ave.

The project plans to take four two-family buildings constructed around 2004, raze them, and build a 47-unit mixed-use building with six Inclusionary Development Policy (IDP) units for affordable housing. The proposal also allows for two areas of commercial space and 33 off-street parking spaces.

The project's size, at just over 29,000 square feet, means that the project fell under the city's Article 80 Small Project Review Process. According to BPDA Project Manager John Campbell, the proponent, the DiSipio Building Group, hosted several community meetings on the project with a good deal of community input.

"District 5 City Councilor Tim McCarthy also submitted a letter of support and his staff is really excited about this proposal because it's going to add the density we're looking for at the Fairmount Rail Line," he said.

Campbell also discussed the new building's amenities and community benefits, which include a total contribution of $60,000 to the city.

"Amenities for residents include a multi-purpose room, a roof deck, and bicycle storage for 47 bikes," Campbell said.

Community leaders from across the city spent the morning having breakfast and mentoring students from the Boston Renaissance Charter Public School at the Annual Young Kings and First Ladies Mentoring Breakfast last week.

The breakfast is an annual event that connects students ages eight to 11 with adults from the community for a morning of conversation about education, career paths, personal aspirations, and more. Students spent weeks prepared probing questions for the breakfast guests. Entertainment was provided by the school's renowned choir, The Voices of Renaissance, who are celebrating their 20th year.

More than 80 guest mentors participated, including public officials, business leaders, community leaders, educators and professionals in an array of fields such as health care, real estate, education, higher education, housing, communications, religion, art, music, law, and technology.

Hyde Park Lions fundraising for reading and relief

The Hyde Park Lions Group are hard at work this holiday season, putting together several fundraisers and collections throughout Hyde Park and the city.

Hyde Park Lions President Fabien DePeiza said the beauty of the Lions Club is that when members see a need out in the community, whether it be in Hyde Park or elsewhere, the entire Lions Club comes together to meet that need.

"We think it's the best way to provide services for the needs in the community," he said. "The needs are identified by the interests of the individual members, and it's nothing you're forced to do."

He said the group's activities have ranged from neighborhood cleanups, diabetes aware-

"It's whatever the members see as a need in the community and we work with folks to address that need and it helps build the community and com-

Hyde Park Celebrates Creation of Boston's First LGBTQ-Supported Senior Housing Development

As part of his commitment to create more housing that is affordable and inclusive, Mayor Martin J. Walsh announced today that the former William Barton Rogers Middle School in Hyde Park will be transformed into Boston's first designated LGBTQ-supported housing development for seniors. When complete, the $33 million development will preserve the beauty of the original 1899 building, while creating 74 new income-restricted rental units that will be welcoming to seniors 62 years and older, and specifically welcoming to seniors who identify as LGBTQ. All units will be deed-restricted in perpetuity, and will provide affordable, safe housing for seniors across a wide variety of incomes.

"I'm proud that together with our partners, we're creating Boston's first designated LGBTQ-supported senior building at the former site of the Rogers Middle School in Hyde Park," said Mayor Walsh. "As Boston's residents continue to age, the need for safe, affordable housing that is welcoming to all remains essential. This new development will be an incredible asset to the neighborhood, offering seniors housing, along with community gardens, walking trails, and other community benefits. I look forward to our work ahead to make more of these projects a reality."

The $33 million project is being led by Pennrose Development and LGBTQ Senior Housing, Inc. who worked extensively with the local community in Hyde Park to meet the needs of residents. In addition to 74 affordable rental units, the new development will also include gallery space, an arts studio, community rooms, community gardens and recreational space, which will be available to both residents and the surrounding community.

"Pennrose and LGBTQ Senior Housing Inc. are both thrilled and honored to be chosen to redevelop this historic school into a new resource," said Pennrose Holdings, LLC CEO Charlie Adams. "Our proposal will create senior housing and provide the larger community with many amenities. Hyde Park has been home to many "firsts" and we look forward to continuing to work with the community as we develop the first welcoming and friendly LGBTQ senior housing in Boston."

"As a long term business owner and resident of Hyde Park I am excited that the Pennrose proposal was chosen for the abandoned Barton Rogers Middle School," said Pat Tierney Hyde Park resident and the Owner of Tierney Realty Group. "This development will do so much for the neighborhood; by beautifying the existing corner, creating commerce for the business district and supplying much needed senior housing for all seniors regardless of their sexual orientation or income level. I consider Pennrose to be a leader in quality senior housing. Let me be the first to welcome such an innovative, creative and Inclusive development to Hyde Park."

Of the 74 total income-restricted rental units in the new Barton Rogers development, eight will be rented to households of individuals who are homeless or who require rental assistance. Another eight will be deeply affordable units for seniors whose income is between approximately $25,000-$40,000 per year. In addition, 34 units will be available to households earning less than

Factory Hill gets new perspectives on park renovation plans

Mary Ellen Gambon
Staff Reporter

The Factory Hill Neighborhood Watch (FHNW) discussed new developments in its quest to apply for Community Preservation Act (CPA) funding to renovate Factory Hill Park at its meeting on Wed., Nov. 13, attended by a dozen members.

FHNW secretary Ellen Scalse announced that she connected with an architectural firm that would help the group with planning the new design for the park.

“COGs is an architectural firm that works with you to fit your needs,” she said. “Different architects work with you on a pro bono basis. They told us they would help us with what we needed for our application.”

COGdesign (Community Outreach Group Design) is a Cambridge-based firm. Its mission is to partner with underserved communities to provide technical assistance to create master plans for gardens and parks. COGs recently toured a site on Blue Hill Ave. with City Councilor Andrea Campbell and a neighborhood group.

Another project begun this year is a three-part project with the Mattahunt Elementary School in Mattapan which involves the abutting Mattahunt Woods. They are planning a raised bed community garden, which currently sits on asphalt, and an additional permaculture garden. Eventually there will be an outdoor classroom and trails.

President Randy Haynes said it was difficult to apply for funding for the 2019, but is grateful to find this resource, which FHNW learned of through Christine Poff, director of the City’s Community Preservation Department.

“Last time, we were under the gun,” he said. “There were a lot of neighborhood groups going for funding as well. Some of them have reached out to us to give us advice for our application. It was promising that we’re getting something done next year rather than this year because of COGs.”

Haynes pointed out that Lisa Evans of the newly-opened We Grow Microgreens was one person who spoke with him, as she received funding. The two talked of the potential of creating a path that could connect the two properties.

“She wanted to go further in her path, and there was some hesitation from DCR (the Department of Conservation and Recreation),” Lisa Consalvo, chief of staff to Rep. Angelo Scaccia, said. The Factory Hill Park is state owned, so the plans would have to be approved by DCR.

A preliminary plan of park elements was discussed among members. People wanted a children’s playground; new benches and improvements to the current seating area; a gazebo; walking paths to the apple orchard and the garden; and better accessibility, including improvements to the stairs. There had been previous discussions about leveling the hills because they block the view from the street and can hide inappropriate activity. Some people also thought exercise equipment was a good idea.

When this was mentioned, Craig Martin, a member of several community groups, introduced himself to the FHNW. He explained that he is a gardener there and read about some of the proposed ideas in the newspaper.

“There are some differing opinions,” he said. “I find that park to be almost an oasis. I am worried that it is going to look like all the other parks, with objects and clutter and what have you.”

One thing in particular he objected to was the exercise station.

“I have never, ever seen anyone use an exercise station,” Martin said. “It sounds like a good idea, but they are not utilized. Nobody is going to walk to a destination point to exercise.”

He added that people pay for gym memberships to participate in a communal exercise environment.

“I don’t think people would go there to show the neighbors how many pull-ups they can do,” Martin added.

"I've never been this homesick before"

When I recently heard for the first time the song referenced in the title above, it seemed to be an appropriate Thanksgiving song. Perhaps it was about somebody pining to come back to our New England, or being less provincial about it, maybe the song addressed the feelings of somebody wishing to go back to Indiana or Virginia, where they experienced happy childhood memories.

New England, as well as Massachusetts and Boston, all have had songs written about them in which the singer wants to return. Cheryl Wheeler's "When Falls Comes to New England" captures our six states in the best possible light, both literally and figuratively. Since 1967 the Bee Gees' "Massachusetts" has spoken highly of our Commonwealth. The Drop Kick Murphys' paean about shipping up to Boston has endeared themselves to countless Boston sports fans.

Back to the "homesick" song. At first listen I pictured somebody missing a Norman Rockwell-type of Thanksgiving dinner, with grandparents, aunts, uncles, and young children all in attendance as a large, scrumptious-looking turkey is presented to eager, smiling family members. Perhaps the singer was a homesick soldier deployed in the fragile Middle East or a homesick someone who, having moved to New York to experience the Big Apple, had to work the night before Thanksgiving and well as the day after, if not the day itself.

But this is not the case with the song: it's not secular. Read/listen to the words in the first few lines and try to detect the double-meanings.

*There's a light in the window, the table's spread in splendor
Someone's standing by the open door
I can see the crystal river, Lord I must be near forever
Lord, I've never been this homesick before
Let's see the bright light shine, it's just about home time
And I can see my Father standing at the door
This world's been a wilderness, I'm ready for deliverance
Oh Lord, I've never been this homesick before.
I can see the family gather, sweet faces stand so familiar*

See the double meanings? That the song is not a secular song but really a religious hymn occurs with the first subtle giveaway when "father" that is spelled with a capital "F." But the lines are so misleading that it could characterize a lonesome person yearning to be at your Thanksgiving table, until the clincher is reached: "I'm ready for deliverance." Preceding this clincher, there are clues that the song could be religious—the "crystal river," "near forever," and "ready for deliverance."

May you have all your loved ones with you this Thanksgiving; may there be no one close to you expressing homesickness at this time of year.

SAY NO TO THE ROAD DIET

To the Editor:

This letter is in response to the recent Letter to the Editor "Facts support a road diet" by Jason Bylsma. The opinion of Mr. Bylsma is based on his beliefs as a bike lobbyist and climate change activist. His claims of myths being spread are unfounded. Let's visit some of these.

Traffic diversion to side streets: BTM themselves at every meeting have said no study has been done regarding traffic being diverted to side streets. Anybody who uses Waze will say something different. I was just in JP this morning and Waze took me thru a residential side street to avoid a 5 minute back up on Centre St. When traffic backs up on a main street, GPS devices will divert traffic to side streets. This is a fact. These streets are more likely to have young children playing on them and they will be put into harm's way more often.

Rush hour delays: Road diets (per the BTM) will add traffic delays during both rush hours. This is not including sitting behind a bus that you can no longer pass because of one single lane or people double parking to drop somebody off or pick up.

Emergency vehicle delays: There are articles published from other communities that contradict this notion that Emergency vehicles will not be delayed. It has been shown that Emergency vehicles can get backed up and delayed on an implemented road diet street.

Loss of Business: There are also many examples online regarding local businesses suffering from the implementation of road diets in their communities. The opposition will not address these examples.

Mr. Bylsma asks you to visit WR Main Streets website for more info. This is all Pro Road Diet propaganda. WRMS is for this road diet even though 85% + of local businesses are dead against it and the majority of residents also oppose this. This is saddening that a local main street chapter can go against the super majority of residents and businesses.

The bike lobby and climate change activists collected 350 WR resident signatures in over a month for this road diet and the anti-road diet side collected over 2000 signatures in 4 days and that number is still climbing. It is the same 8 people that are pushing this agenda and speaking for WR and they have not been adding any new voices. The anti-road diet side has grown and has added 100s of new voices weekly and that list is growing each day.

The local WR bike chapter has also said on Boston bike lobby sites that WR is prime for many more protected bike routes. They will not stop with Centre St. And 85% of these people pushing this are from outside WR and have been welcomed into this vibrant community only to turn their backs on neighbors and local business to satisfy their own need for bike lanes.

Other related facts they will not discuss.

16-21 parking spots lost out of 221. They will add loading zones for deliveries throughout Centre St and during these peak hours in the am/pm a rough estimate is another 30 spots up and down Centre for a total of 46-51 total spots out of 221. They only mention 16 in their talking points.

This stretch of road currently has 7 bus stops for our seniors, children and residents and this number will be reduced to 4/5, making this very vulnerable group walk even further.

The city has said many times that they do not have answers for snow removal, only during smaller storms. That's not encouraging, this is NE after all.

WR Walks (local Facebook page) only speaks for themselves and the small amount of members they have. They are also Climate change activists and want to ban cars.

They actually did a walk audit recently to figure out traffic and walking patterns in WR. Only 5 people attended and this happened to be on a SUNDAY at 1:00pm. The least traveled time of the week and the least amount of cars parking in the area.

The WR Walks Editor actually posted something recently about the Jamaica Way being dangerous and needs protected bike lanes. Yes, he actually said the Jamaica Way, which already has the widest sidewalks in the city for bikes and walkers.

PAY NO ATTENTION TO THE MAN BEHIND THE SCREEN

To the Editor:

Sal, I had to go back again and reread the letters and found that the shifty principal was deployed by the respondent who mischaracterized yours, mine and their words, twisting them to discredit all of our opinions, however, my "missive" was derived from facts reported by printed and televised media.

This climate argument has some validity but ignores the improvements and gains made by our country, while China and India are allowed, by the Paris Accord, to continue adding rather than halting growth of, or better yet reducing their contributions. Having gardened and bicycled for over fifty years, I still have a 1973 Phillips in the garage; stop trying to shove this crap down my throat.

The reason you can't walk or bike safely in the city of Boston is because drivers DO NOT OBEY TRAFFIC LAWS because there is NO ENFORCEMENT. The Bulletin can go back through my letters which mostly go unprinted, and I'm sure I've written a dozen times about drivers running red lights and I know it happens all over the city. I see at least one red light being run almost everytime I go from home to Roache's and sometimes twice.

I've seen the red light run while the daycare kids were in the crosswalk and watched 4 cars and a bus run the red light at the Corrib while the crossing signal chirped away. So, until the traffic laws are enforced and solar powered red flashing pedestrian crossing signs are installed at every crosswalk, stick your road diet.

I bring up gardening because it's totally dependent on climate, and one thing I know is it's different every year. I longer stand living with the practice of slavery. They left South Carolina for Massachusetts and lectured about the immediate abolition of slavery, which, at the time, was controversial for women to do. In 1863, the Grimke sisters bought a house on Fairmount Avenue in Hyde Park. In 1870, they organized a suffrage demonstration. After nominating candidates for local office at a women's caucus, they marched through a snowstorm with other suffragists and cast their ballots. The votes did not count, but this was the first time women went to the polls in Massachusetts.

The anti-slavery activities of the Grimke sisters raised the "woman question" - should women speak in public and exercise political rights? Sarah Grimke famously stated, "I know nothing of man's rights or woman's rights; human rights are all that I recognize." Allgor stated that in today's day and age, many people question which historical figures are truly worthy of recognition and dedication. "The Grimke sisters are more than deserving of recognition," she stated.

Allgor explained that despite being born and raised in the "heart of slave country South Carolina," Angelina and Sarah were able to "see the moral arc of justice" by speaking out against slavery.

Hyde Park Historical Society member and 54th Regiment Company A Reenactors member Bob Vance explained that after the funding for the repair of the Dana Avenue Bridge was announced, many people suggested naming the bridge after the Grimke sisters.

"The Boston Women's Heritage Trail heard someone suggested this [renaming the bridge after the Grimke sisters] and we wrote a letter in support of it," stated Mary Howland Smoyer of the Boston Women's Heritage Trail.

"This bridge is a monument to two American heroes who lived half a mile from where we are standing right now. The Grimke sisters believed in dignity for every single human being," stated Mayor Walsh. "The Grimke sisters should be a household name. In Boston, we're making sure their story is told. We are dedicating this bridge as a commemoration and also a call to action. The work is not finished, not by a long shot. Voter suppression is still a problem in our country. Women and people of color are still underrepresented and underpaid in almost every single sector of society. In the United States, less than 10 percent of public monuments are named after women. In Boston, we are looking to change that.

"Representation matters. When young girls and boys see landmarks like this bridge named after extraordinary women, it makes a big impact. We need to empower women and girls in every way." Walsh also mentioned that in January, Boston will welcome an even more diverse city council with women as the majority.

"A city map of Boston landmarks is a "who's who" of famous names - like the Paul Revere House and Zakim Bridge. Until now, few of those names have belonged to women," Lee remarked. "The Grimke sisters paved the way for generations of women to march through these streets to pursue justice, equal rights, equal opportunity, and equal representation. Even so, it has taken a long time for our heroes to get the recognition they deserve. I've often said that Boston is the original 'Old Boys Club', which is why it is so important to elect more women. This is something I, and so many others, are working hard to do."

Del Rio spoke about the importance of representation: "When little girls cross the bridge and they will ask, 'Who are the Grimke sisters? Can I be like them? Can I be courageous like them?' And the answer is going to be yes."

After the speeches, Walsh, Del Rio, McCarthy, Lee, Allgor and Birdseye cut a ribbon to officially open the newly named Grimke Sisters Bridge. ### The not so small Mini Countryman Plug In

What a joy to drive this week. The 2019 Mini Countryman plug in AWD model. I have driven Mini's in the past I figured this was like the others... small, not a lot of power, and very stiff ride. I opened the door and looked inside, then looked at the exterior and thought, this is a real 4 passenger car that has grown up in every possible way without losing the style that it started out with.

The car seats 4 with comfort, even the rear seat area is easy to enter and exit, the rear door is hatch back in design and automatic. The interior design has changed slightly with different switches and locations. There are basic toggle style switches for some, even the start switch is a toggle light lever. The seats are very supportive and fronts are heated. The outside styling is pure Mini, open either front door and the name Mini glows on the ground below the front doors from a built in light. There is even a sun visor on the drivers header liner area to help keep out the sun glare.

The 15 liter 3 cylinder turbo does not have the 3 cylinder sound or vibration that is common on 3 cylinder engines. The 1.5 liter pumps out 134 horse power and the electric motor adds another 87 horse power. The e-drive button allows 3 different driving mode. The transition of the gas engine and electric engine power is seamless. Power was way above my expectations, as was the ride seat position clear vision etc. I did drive 25 plus miles on electric power and again the car seemed to be gliding down the road with no engine or outside. This Mini was outfitted with options. The base Countryman starts out at $36,900.00 destination $850.00. The option package, of the PHEV sport edition is $2,900.00 includes power folding mirrors, power tail gate, panorama roof, heated front seats, Mini excitement package, dual climate controls, led fog light, cornering lights and led head lights, Harman/Kardon premium audio system, touch screen navigation package $1700.00 includes multiple electronics, JWC appearance package $2,000.00, includes 18 inch JCW wheels, leather steering wheels, rear spoiler, John Cooper Works aero kit, head liner in Anthracite, PHEV special edition $1,125.00. Total price as tested $45,750.00. Bottom line is this is a fun to drive sport sedan for both young and old.

“This is excellent input,” Scalese said.

In addition, Martin said he would hate to see the topography of the park changed with no means of restoration.

“I would hate to see the berms flattened and then have people say, ‘Gee, I wish we hadn’t done that.’” Martin said. “The reason to go there is to see the hills. And the big berm is the Blue Hills.”

He and others noted that there are mature trees that would also be removed, which would impact the landscape and air quality.

“I think part of the concern is safety,” Haynes said. “Some folks go behind them to do their activities.”

Martin pointed out that there are “lots of places to hide,” and that many illicit activities take place inside cars.

Some members suggested a partial reduction in height.

“We will work with the architects to keep the trees and the beauty of the uneven landscape,” Scalese said.

The group will form a subcommittee to work on the application, as FHNW will not meet again until April.

FHNW also has received assistance from other local groups. The week before the meeting, local environmental advocates Keep Hyde Park Beautiful (KHPB) worked with members to clean up Factory Hill Park. They also planted 100 daffodils together.

Scalese added that Nathaniel

Thomas from the West Fairmount Hill Neighborhood Group (WFHNG) also provided her with some sound advice.

Turning toward the holiday season, Bryan Flynn, the Hyde Park liaison for the Mayor’s Office of Neighborhood Services, announced the Mayor’s Annual Trolley Tour and Tree Lighting on Fri., Dec. 6 in Readville. It will take place in Wolcott Square at 6 p.m. with Santa, his reindeer and additional festivities and refreshments.

Consalvo promoted the Holiday Stroll. It will be held that evening on Fairmount Ave. It will begin at Antonio’s Bacaro and continue to Tierney Realty Group and The Switch.

Fixit Clinic hits Hyde Park

Keep Hyde Park Beautiful held the first of what it hopes to be a regular clinic where residents with a little fixit knowhow came by to show residents how to repair items they brought themselves. The idea was to connect those who did with those who needed teaching and dozens of residents came by to see if someone could fix some very strange items. KHPB thanked everyone for coming, saying, “It was so much fun watching friendships form and magic happen with each repair! A special thanks to Jen Gaman, who was the catalyst and the planner for today’s event! We hope to do it again soon...maybe in March.”

(Never known to fail!)

Oh, most beautiful flower of Mt. Carmel, fruitful vine, splendor of Heaven, Blessed Mother of the Son of God, Immaculate Virgin, assist me in this necessity. ## HP Lions continued from page 1

Branch of the Boston Public Library, for which he’s implemented a book sharing program with the St. Cyprians Episcopal Church in the South End.

“We’re going to be getting books to give to the church to start a literacy program with the kids for Sunday School programs in the area,” he said.

DePeiza said he is a member of that church, and the idea started with a musical education program he runs there teaching children to play steel pan music.

“We found that people in general, when they’re exposed to music education at a young age, it fosters the love of reading and so we’re combining the two,” he said. “We are looking to expand both programs into an Episcopal church here in Hyde Park. And we’re not limited to just one church either. Right now we’re just focusing on a couple.

Another program the group is working on is the collection of eyeglasses for the Lions down in Barbados. DePeiza said they currently take the glasses and reuse them with no alteration if the prescription is right or they refurbish them for users’ needs. He said many of the island’s residents cannot afford glasses, and so this program helps alleviate the issue.

The group meets every first Tuesday of the month at 6:30 p.m. at Waterford’s Pub just over in Dedham. DePeiza said for their upcoming Dec. 10 meeting, the group is hosting its 51st annual holiday party and fundraiser.

“It’s not really a huge fundraiser, and we’re hoping to start some new fundraisers in the future,” he said. “We’ll have a Yankee Swap raffle, so we encourage everybody to bring a gift in the vicinity of 20 bucks, and we do a light-hearted meeting, not like a regular meeting. We’ll have a couple new members inducted, one of who was someone who saw a previous article in the Bulletin and decided to come on board.”

DePeiza said the event is $35 for a meal, and a portion of the proceeds will go to the Bahamas Relief Effort to help victims of the most recent Hurricane Dorian.

Housing continued from page 2

60% AMI (about $55,000 for a two-person household). The remaining units will be rented to households earning up to 80% AMI (8 units) and 100% AMI (16 units).

The William Barton Rogers Middle School was built in 1899 on 74,000 square feet of land in Boston’s Hyde Park neighborhood. It was named in honor of William Barton Rogers, a geologist, physicist, and educator who was the primary founder and first president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in Cambridge. The original building was expanded twice, once in 1920, and then again in 1934. In the more than 100 years of its operation as a Boston Public School, it served as both a high school and middle school. Before its closure in June of 2015, the Rogers School put an emphasis on the performing arts, and the tenet of inclusivity for all.

Since the start of the Walsh Administration, over 2,000 units of affordable housing for aging citizens have been preserved as deed restricted affordable units, many of which otherwise would have become market-rate units. The City works to identify and help seniors who are being evicted or foreclosed on and come up with solutions that allow them to remain in their homes or be rapidly rehoused in new housing. Since 2014, the City’s program has prevented more than 1,000 of Boston’s seniors from losing their housing and becoming homeless.

In 2018, Mayor Martin J. Walsh updated his comprehensive housing strategy, Housing A Changing City: Boston 2030 to increase the City’s overall housing goal to 69,000 new units by 2030. This goal includes the creation of 15,820 new income-restricted units, which will elevate Boston’s number of income-restricted units to 70,000, while maintaining its ratio of one income-restricted unit in every five units of housing in Boston. Creating 2,000 new units for low-income seniors by 2030 is a specific target within this 15,820 income-restricted unit goal. There are currently 310 units of senior housing in construction, and an additional 350 units, including the 74 at the Barton Rogers School, are in the development pipeline. Mayor Walsh’s 2019 housing security legislative package focuses on measures to protect Boston’s senior renters while expanding upon the work that Boston has done to address the region’s affordable housing crisis by strengthening tools that leverage Boston’s prosperity and create new sustainable opportunities to make Boston a more inclusive and equitable city.

know that nature wants a balance and America is one of the few countries working hard to improve its environment through conservation and science. So send Greta to China, India, Russia and Italy as I've heard they all still use coal as a primary energy source.

As for the face of a changing demographic in West Roxbury, please don't try to tell me about MY neighborhood because if you can't afford a second car you probably can't afford West Roxbury. And again, an observation, the residences at 1789 are only 25% sold and Oak Grove, next to Home Depot, they're still flying a For Rent flag and I don't understand why because these units are easily affordable units, or am I thinking of 20th century pricing.

And if I recall, the 20th century was full of bikes so what was old is new again. So Sal, as Kenny says, keep up the good fight, because it's your opinion and the constitution promises you the right to express it!!!

THANK YOU, DISTRICT 6

I am once again humbled and honored to have been elected as your Councilor. For the sixth time, you have bestowed upon me the greatest honor of my professional life: being your voice on the Boston City Council. As your Councilor, I work for you every day — on issues big and small — to push Boston to be the best for all of us.

Many challenges confront us as a City: from development to public safety to climate resilience to strengthening public education, but I know that we can work collectively to tackle these issues and build a Better Boston.

My excitement for the job and tackling the work that lays ahead of us has only grown in my 9 years on the body. Thank you again for the support and I look forward to working with you and for you in the term ahead.

As always, if I can be of any assistance to you, please don't hesitate to call me directly at 617-635-4220 (office) or 617-935-9752.

Healthy cooking tips for a Thanksgiving feast

Thanksgiving is a special day to cherish time with loved ones and reflect on what we are thankful for. But Thanksgiving is also a time that many of us indulge in our favorite comfort foods.

“There is nothing wrong with enjoying your favorite stuffing and pouring a little extra gravy on your turkey this Thanksgiving,” says Brigham and Women’s Faulkner Hospital’s Outpatient and Community Liaison Dietitian Allie Lang, RDN, LDN. “But there are ways to make the meal healthier for you and your guests, especially those with diabetes or heart disease, and still make it delicious!”

Below are tips that Lang says are simple to implement and that don’t sacrifice flavor:

Swap the extra salt for more herbs and spices

Herbs and spices can add flavor without adding sodium. Try going light with the salt and seasoning your turkey and stuffing with savory herbs and spices such as thyme, parsley, rosemary, sage and freshly ground black pepper.

Go easy on the alcohol
Alcoholic beverages can be heavy on sugar, carbohydrates and calories. Craft beers can be especially heavy with up to 300 calories per bottle. Spritzers and lighter beers are a great lower calorie alternative.

Switch up your mashed potato recipe

Instead of mixing in butter and cream, try low fat sour cream or milk to add creaminess to your recipe with less saturated fat and calories. You can also mix in some mashed cauliflower to lower the calories as well.

Offer healthy sides

Steamed or roasted vegetables are perfect for your Thanksgiving meal and add some healthy options to the mix. Broccoli, carrots, cauliflower, parsnips, turnips and squash are examples of nutrient-rich fall seasonal vegetables.

Portion control is key

With all of your favorite comfort foods and desserts in front of you, it can be difficult not to pile your plate high with large portions. If you scale your portions back and savoring each bite, you may be satisfied with less food.

These simple tips can greatly reduce the amount of sodium, calories and unhealthy fats you consume this Thanksgiving, without sacrificing flavor. Remember to enjoy every bite of these special comfort foods that bring us together and remind us of what we are thankful for.

Artist Rendering of 99-105 Fairmount Avenue

"The proponent will also make a community benefit contribution of $60,000, one in a $40,000 contribution to the Boston Transportation Department to implement pedestrian (Americans with Disabilities Act) improvements and bicycle access improvements in the vicinity around the project site and the Fairmount Rail Station, as well as a $20,000 contribution to the city's fund for parks to plant trees and horticultural improvements to Cleary and Logan Squares."

Project attorney John Pulgini of Pulgini and Norton LLP said the neighborhood of Hyde Park has been losing sit down restaurants throughout the neighborhood, and he felt that added density would help that.

"As Councilor McCarthy had put in his letter of support, Hyde Park is really struggling in their business district with density, the restaurants are going out of business because there just isn't enough people there," he said. "We went through a very good community process, had a lot of support in the neighborhood. People realized the density of development is accomplishing the goals for more housing for the city but also smartly in the sense that it is directly adjacent to the Fairmount Train Station and less than a quarter of a mile away from the Hyde Park Commuter Rail as well."

According to previous reporting from the Hyde Park Bulletin, the rosy picture of agreement Pulgini painted was not entirely accurate.

Residents questioned the proposal's parking numbers, which comes in at .7 parking space to unit ratio. Pulgini said at the time that younger people rely more on commuter rail and rideshare services and will not necessarily have a car. Some residents disputed this argument, and felt that new development in the neighborhood should stick to the zoning code neighbors worked on in 2012.

The BPDA Board members asked what is going to happen to the current residents of the four two family homes, and Pulgini said DeSipio currently owns them and is offering to pay to move each unit to first a temporary housing situation and then pay for them to come back once the new building is constructed.

For more information on the project, which will be going before the Boston Zoning Board of Appeals in the coming weeks, go to <http://www.bostonplans.org/projects/development-projects/99-105-fairmount-avenue>
