Arroyo takes D5, women now the majority in Council

Jeff Sullivan
Staff Reporter

Ricardo Arroyo has been declared the winner of the 2019 Boston Municipal Election for District 5 of the Boston City Council.

The win marks the first time that a white male has not held that position in Boston ever, and Arroyo did not mince words at his campaign headquarters.

"We made history," he said to raucous cheers from the crowd. "Thank you."

Arroyo's competitor Maria Esdale Farrell would have made history as well, but came up about 1,000 votes short at 4,398 (45.05 percent) to Arroyo's 5,325 (54.54 percent) and, including the 40 write in votes counted (.41 percent) that totaled about 10,000 votes in a district where the United States Census Bureau puts the total population at about 100,000.

Arroyo started as a public defender in Boston, and said that growing up in a household with a teacher as a mother and an elected official for a father he was always dedicated to finding ways to serve. In high school he was a youth coach and said it was there he first saw how some kids were being treated differently than others in terms of receiving services.

While Arroyo is joining the first Boston City Council with a majority of female members, he pointed out there was another piece of history made as well.

"I want to put this in big, bold, blinking neon lights," Arroyo said. "The city of Boston is going to have a majority person of color city council. And for the first time, the city is going to have a majority women council. Think about the folks who are going to have voices now. Think about the issues that are going to be lifted up."

In District 9 of Allston, Liz Breadon soundly beat Craig Cashman with 3,883 votes (58 percent) to his 2,724 votes (41 percent). Liz Breadon now joins District 8 winner Priscilla Kenzie Bok and At-Large winner Julia Mejia to make the Boston City Council officially a female-majority body, with eight women to five men.

The Boston City Council held a hearing on Oct. 31 to discuss the appropriation of $232,000 from the Cemetery Trust Fund to the Boston Parks and Recreation Department for maintenance and care of the city's three municipal cemeteries.

Mount Hope is one of three city-run cemeteries and includes the Evergreen Cemetery in Brighton and the Fairview Cemetery in Hyde Park that make up 200 acres of cemetery land according to General Administrator of Cemeteries at the Parks and Rec Tom Sullivan.

WWII vet found, to be buried in WR

Needham-born and Jamaica Plain-educated World War II First Lieutenant Joseph Edward Finneran's remains have finally been located and identified after 76 years.

The U.S. Air Force bombardier will have visiting hours at the George F. Doherty and Sons Funeral Home at 1305 Highland Ave. in Needham and a Funeral Mass of Christian burial at St. Joseph's Church, 1382 Highland Ave. in Needham at 10 a.m. the following day.

Finneran's funeral procession will commence through Needham at Great Plain Avenue, Needham Street, a left on Bridge Street in Dedham to Spring Street in West Roxbury past the U.S. Veterans Administration Hospital. It will then go straight on to Centre Street to the Mount Benedict Cemetery. Residents and businesses along the route are encouraged to display flags during the procession to show their support.

According to Air Force records, Finneran was recovered and accounted for on Aug.

His aircraft crashed on Aug.

1 of 1943 after being hit by anti-aircraft fire during Operation Tidal Wave, the largest bombing mission against the oil fields and refineries at Ploiesti in Romania.

Forces based in Libya and Southern Italy on nine oil refineries around Ploiesti. The idea of the attack was centered around the Oil Campaign, designed to deny petroleum to the Axis. It was a costly raid. Of the 177 B-24s involved in the attack 53 were destroyed and 55 were damaged. The 52 German fighters, supported by one German-Romanian Flak Division and one Romanian Anti-Aircraft Brigade, lost seven fighters total (two Romanian and five German.)

Of the 310 Americans killed during the raid only 27 could be identified, and Finneran wasn't one of them. Those who could not be identified were buried as unknowns in the Hero Section of the Civilian and Military Cemetery of Bolovan in Ploiesti, and then reinterred in the American Military Cemetery at Neufville-en-Condroz in Belgium.

All those remains were exhumed in 2017 and later identified through anthropological and DNA analysis, according to the POW/MIA Accounting Agency. Finneran has been posthumously awarded the Purple Heart, the Distinguished Flying Cross with one oak leaf cluster and the Air Medal with four oak leaf clusters.

Census wants to hire you

Jeff Sullivan
Staff Reporter

The U.S. Census Bureau announced earlier this month that it's that time of the decade again, as its agents prepare for the coming 2020 Census.

According to Senior Partnership Specialist at U.S. Census Bureau Raymond Bennett, the Bureau is still looking for census takers to pick up clipboards and get out in their communities.

"The Census is accepting permanent or temporary field positions in every U.S.

County from now until Feb. 5," he said, adding residents can apply at 2020census.gov/jobs. "We've got a range of positions, like Census Taker, Recruiting Assistant, Office Supervisor or Field Supervisor. We've got opportunities across the state for daytime, evenings and weekends and the pay is up to $25 per hour with a maximum of 25 hours per week."

Bennett added the whole idea right now is to get as many Census takers as they need from their respective communities.

"The Census is committed to hire people within their community; hire people to work where they live," he said. "

Bennett said he agreed that cold calling people at their homes, like a traveling salesman or a missionary, might not be the most attractive selling point of the job, but said they've had a long time to learn the ropes of cold calling as an organization, since the Census has been taken every 10 years since 1790.

New Brook Farm

Last Saturday on a perfect October afternoon—it was actually November—underneath a brilliant, cloudless sky, the New Brook Farm launched its fifth focus on photography at the 180-acre historic farm as well as painting and other arts.

Warmly welcoming visitors with cider, pumpkin bread, humus, pita bread, grapes, and sweets, the coalition hosted a tour of West Roxbury's most famous historic site. While other Boston neighborhoods, such as South Boston and Charlestown can boast of Dorchester Heights and Bunker Hill respectively, West Roxbury's only claim to national fame lies in the remnants of a pre-Civil War attempt at utopian communal living by transcendentalists.

For a guy who lives only a few miles from the site, I was totally unaware of its status as a site under the auspices of a trifecta of the Boston Landmarks Commission, United States National Historic Site, and the Massachusetts Department of Conservation and Recreation.

The highlight of the afternoon was a special guided walk with Thoreau re-enactor Richard Smith, replete with appropriate costume and public discourse (no contractions whatsoever). Originally from Akron, Ohio, this historian captured the essence of Concord's most famous citizen.

The traipse through the

My Kind of Town/ Joe Galeota

woodlands brought mention of other famous names such as Ralph Waldo Emerson, Margaret Fuller, and the Alcotts, with whom Thoreau interfaced. Many of us learned that we had been pronouncing Henry David's last name incorrectly: it should be THOR-oh, with the accent on the first syllable, although two web sites on pronunciation want it articulated Thor-OH, accent on the last syllable. Whatever.

January 31, 2020, is the last date for submitting collages, poetry, songs, needlework, photography, paintings, drawings, stories, centerpieces, and fairy house decorations to the Focus on Brook Farm competition. May local art and English teachers encourage submissions by children and teenagers so that the next generation is not as ignorant of the historical significance of Brook Farm as yours truly.

THANK YOU FOR ROSLINDALE LIBRARY COMMUNITY PROJECT

To the Editor:

The Friends of Roslindale Library would like to extend enormous thanks to many individuals and groups for their contributions to the Roslindale Community Library project, through which we added 15 home-based and 10 business-based free bookshelves throughout the neighborhood in anticipation of our branch closing for renovations. Here are some of the people and groups who contributed time, funding, and/or talent to make this effort so successful. We invite the community to sustain the effort and support the library hosts by dropping off gently used recent fiction, non-fiction and children's books at a Roslindale Community Library near you. # Vermont State Police requesting aid in Roslindale man's murder

Jeff Sullivan
Staff Reporter

Vermont State Police (VSP) announced on Monday evening that the Vermont Chief Medical Examiner's Office completed an autopsy on Roslindale resident Roberto Fonseca-Rivera, 44.

The VSP reported that Fonseca-Rivera had been shot in the head and neck, and they are reporting as of Monday that the case is now considered a homicide.

The VSP reported that Fonseca-Rivera, employed by Katsiroubas Produce of Hyde Park, was making deliveries for his employer. The VSP reported that Fonseca-Rivera was last heard from at about 12:15 p.m. on Friday, Nov. 1 leaving Rutland, Vt., and heading southbound on Vermont Route 103.

The VSP stated its investigators believe the shooting occurred between 1 p.m. and 1:30 p.m. on Vermont Route 103 near the location where the victim's body was discovered Friday evening in his vehicle around 5:45 p.m. in Rockingham.

The Vermont State Police would like to speak to anyone who saw the Katsiroubas Produce truck on Vermont Route 103 on Friday afternoon, including anyone who may have observed anything suspicious with the truck or with any other vehicles operating near the truck. People with any potential information are asked to call the state police barracks in Westminster at 802-722-4600.

Last year, Fonseca-Rivera was sentenced by U.S. District Court Judge Denise Casper to one year and one day in prison and three years of supervised release after pleading guilty to conspiracy to possess with intent to distribute cocaine. The investigation started in January of 2015, in which the United States Attorney's Office of the District of Massachusetts states that Fonseca and four co-defendants in the case received more than 30 suspicious packages believed to be cocaine sent from Puerto Rico.

Katsiroubas Brothers released a statement from Ted Katsiroubas saying it was felt by their company that Fonseca-Rivera had served his time and was a good employee. They hired him back when he was released from prison earlier this year.

Roberto Fonseca-Rivera

"We are deeply saddened to learn of the tragic death of our dedicated, kind and reliable co-worker, Robert Fonseca-Rivera," Ted Katsiroubas stated. "We learned in the past few hours a laugh. “That’s John Tobin’s favorite joke.”

The grant will provide $140,000 for expansion and infrastructure improvements and then $92,000 for repairs to the administration building for heating and air conditioning improvements. Temporary First Assistant Collector-Treasurer Richard DePino said the infrastructure improvements are there to provide increased burial capacity for veteran residents.

“As well as for our poor population,” he said. “In addition, the second piece of the appropriation is specifically for the administrative building. To the building’s credit, it has seen and used its useful life and this appropriation will have a complete replacement of that system.”

O’Malley said he is proud that the city helps to provide burial services for residents in need and veterans, and that the city helps pay for those services.

“You’re losing a loved one and then just the cost of everything is terrible,” he said.

Sullivan said the city offers free or discounted burial services for those in need, and services for veterans who were residents of the City of Boston at the time of their enlistment or current resident, and the charge for such a service is $880 per veteran and their spouse.

“It varies, but we’re very low end for a new grave for a private burial at Fairview is about $4,000,” Sullivan said. “If you go to St. Joseph’s, which would probably be the next level up, it’s about $12,000. Eight-hundred-and-eighty dollars for a middle of the road cemetery, if you will, and then you have places like Forest Hills that go way up. So it’s a substantial benefit for those who certainly deserve it.”

Sullivan said they work with Boston’s Veteran Services Department to approve those burials and then they physically lay them to rest.

“On the veterans’ burials, we average about 40 a year,” Sullivan said. “Those have been at Mount Hope at the FR Kelly Lot. On the city poor, we average about 80 indigent burials a year. Combined with the three active cemeteries, Evergreen in Brighton and Fairview in Hyde Park and Mount Hope, we average anywhere from 650 to 800 burials a year combined.”

Sullivan said for indigent burials, the person is deemed indigent by the Massachusetts Department of Transitional Assistance, and a certificate to bury the individual is given to a local funeral home like the Lawler Home in West Roxbury or the Casper Funeral Services in South Boston.

“They’re often the two that come forward and help with that,” he said. “I’m not positive about this, but their fee is usually around $2,000, and our charge to the undertaker is $276. So that’s what we charge for the burial of a poor person.”

Sullivan said that in the past, before a state law, many towns and cities in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts would send their indigent dead to Boston to take advantage of this price scale. He said that doesn’t happen as often anymore.

“We just ask that the person be a Boston resident, if they die on the Boston Common, that’s an address for us that’s fine,” he said. “I feel good that now we get 90 percent Boston residents.”

Prayer to the Blessed Virgin
(Never known to fail!)

Oh, most beautiful flower of Mt. Carmel, fruitful vine, splendor of Heaven, Blessed Mother of the Son of God, Immaculate Virgin, assist me in this necessity. Oh Star of the Sea, help me and show me herein you are my mother. Oh Holy Mary, Mother of God, Queen of Heaven and Earth, I humbly beseech thee from the bottom of my heart to succor me in my necessity (make request). There are none that can withstand your power. Oh Mary, conceived without sin, pray for us who have recourse to thee (three times). Holy Mary, I place this cause in your hands (three times). Say this prayer for three consecutive days and then you must publish and it will be granted to you.
—S.G.H.

Miracle Prayer

Dear Heart of Jesus, in the past I have asked You for many favours. This time, I ask you this very special one (mention favour). Take it, dear Heart of Jesus, and place it within Your own broken heart where Your Father sees it. Then, in His merciful eyes, it will become Your favour, not mine. Amen. Say for three days, promise publication and favour will be granted.
—S.G.H.

Novena to St. Claire

Ask St. Claire for three favors, 1 business, 2 impossible. Say nine Hail Marys for nine days, with lighted candle. Pray whether you believe or not. Publish on the ninth day. Powerful novena. Say “May the Sacred Heart of Jesus be praised, adored, glorified, now and forever, throughout the whole world. Amen.” Your request will be granted, no matter how impossible it may seem.
—S.G.H.

Novena to St. Jude

Oh Holy St. Jude Apostle and Martyr, great in virtue and rich in miracles, near Kinsman of Jesus Christ faithful intercessor of all who invoke your special patronage in time of need, to you I have recourse from the depths of my heart and humbly beg to whom God has given such great power to come to my assistance. Help me in my present and urgent petition. In return I promise to make your name known and cause you to be invoked. Say three Our Fathers, three Hail Marys and three Glorias. Publication must be promised. St. Jude pray for us and all who invoke your aid. Amen. This must be said for nine consecutive days. This Novena has never been known to fail.

Walter's Run returning for 25th year

Jeff Sullivan
Staff Reporter

It's been a quarter century since Walter's Run first started as the Santa Scammer in 1994, a simple way for the friends and family of Walter Burgess to get out and have a bit of exercise during the holiday feasting months.

However, Burgess wanted the race to become something more, to become a way to not only better his health and calorie intake, but to better his community. He ran a lot, at least 25 marathons, and when he finished one he was known to go back and run with others to motivate them.

Burgess died in 2003, and that's when friends and family like Jim Sweeney took up his mantle. The 25th Walter's Run started at 11 a.m. on Dec. 8. Burgess had organized the race to be a charity event for Globe Santa and the YMCA of Greater Boston Annual Fund and, after he died, created the Walter Burgess Scholarship Fund, which helps underprivileged children attend summer camp.

Sweeney said since 2010, they've been able to raise anywhere from $10,000 to $16,000 for those programs every race, and he said he felt his friend Walter would be proud of that.

"We like to think that we're sad because he's not here to see all this, but we think he'd be really happy and proud to think that his name and legacy, kind of who he was, can live on," Sweeney said. "I think that was really the idea behind making the race in his name because it fit him so much. I'm sure he'd be humbled to be honest with you, humbled and proud, and that's what keeps us going with it and makes us feel so good about putting it on."

Globe Santa provides gifts to families in need all around the world and the contribution from Walter's Run allows them to provide gifts for more than 100 families every year.

"And it's a good amount of money to send a whole bunch of kids to camp or to the Y," Sweeney said.

He said the race is a good time too, attracting 400 to 500 runners every year from all around. In some years they have people from the West Coast and Midwest participate, but a lot of it is definitely locally-driven.

"I think because it's a holiday race and a time of year when you really want to feel the spirit of giving, that it really feels special to be a part of this," Sweeney said. "We were inspired by Walter and his generosity. He was just such a giving person to his friends, to the charities like Globe Santa, the Y and his that the Vermont State Police suspect foul play in Roberto's death. We hope the investigation is quick and successful. We want justice for Roberto."

Katsiroubas stated that Fonseca-Rivera helped the company and his fellow co-workers whenever he could.

"Roberto's smiling, outgoing presence always brightened our days," he stated. "This was a man who would stay after work and help co-workers repairing their vehicles. The Katsiroubas family, which has been in business for 105 years, is deeply concerned for the safety and well-being of our employees. We are arranging for counselors to be on hand to help employees as long as they are in need to deal with this tragedy."

AUTHOR TALK BY ROBERT CUCCOZO

Monday November 25th at 6:30 pm. The Road to San Donato is an adventurous travel memoir of an American father and son tracing their Italian heritage by bicycle.

With only the bare essentials on their backs, author Robert Cocuzzo and his sixty-four-year-old father, Stephen, embark on a torturous 425-mile ride from Florence, Italy, to San Donato Val di Comino, an ancient village hidden in the Apennine mountains from which their family emigrated a hundred years earlier. After getting lost, beaten down, and very nearly stranded, when they finally reach the village the Cocuzzos discover so much more than their own family story.

For many Jews in the 1940s, the road to San Donato was one of exile; during World War II, dozens were interned in the village. When the Nazis came to ship them off to death camps, however, many of the villagers went to heroic lengths to save their lives. Walking and pedaling through this history, Robert Cocuzzo is determined to learn the role his family played at the time. The Road to San Donato is a story of fathers and sons, discovering lost "cousins," valorous history, and the challenge and exhilaration of traveling by bicycle.

Reception by the Friends of the library 6 p.m. onwards. Harvard Coop will sell the books and can accept cash, cards and checks. Everyone is welcome!

The SUV Craze Goes On

Here are a couple of very different SUV'S. The first is the very large Ford Expedition and super size MAX both with all new great style. Our Expedition was the extended MAX model. As big as it is, it handled well and the ride was very smooth. Another craze is the 3rd row seating. On either Expedition there is room for 2 adults. The second row seats fold down flat at the push of a button. The interior leather seating surfaces is high quality as was the steering wheel and door panel material. The upgraded auto and info-mat system was easy to use and navigate. Steering hub controls along with a large clear touch screen bring all the electronics to the driver.

Power comes from a twin turbo 3.5 liter V/6 pumping out 375 hp or in the platinum model 400 hp. Remember these are 6 cylinder engines bringing in 470-480 ft lbs of torque at 3500 – 3250 RPM. These hp numbers are those of a V/8. All this power is backed via a rotary control shifted 10 speed automatic. The Expedition is available in either RWD or 4WD, and 4 different models in either version. There are multiple options in all models. The panorama sunroof is extra large and the sun shade keeps out all the heat or cold depending the weather. As big as our Max is, the handling is something you would have to experience, I was amazed the ride and handling on the back winding roads. Gas mileage has also been a big plus 16-17 city and 21-23 highway and I fell into these figures. Towing capacity is 9000 lbs. Base price on the RWD XL $52225.00 and the 2WD Platinum is $76060.00. Four wheel base XL $55235.00 and Platinum $79200.00. The SUV has all the safety features that one would expect. Tire sizes range from 18-22 inches depending on the model and options as well as rear seat entertainment. Remote start warms the interior on those cold winter mornings and has great range of operation. There is no question that Ford is build SUV'S and trucks for personal and commercial use.

might feel isolated,” Clinton said as she encouraged each painter. “Next time I am giving you each a box of paints to take home. I want you to remember when you were young playing in the sandbox. Just open yourself up and play with the paints. Get creative.”

Clinton, an artist and art instructor for two decades, has been teaching at the MAC for the past ten years. She said she never thought she would be an artist until her friend, Paul Nolan, convinced her to come to his art class. Later he told her to enter a painting into a competition at City Hall.

Little did she know that her work would win the prestigious Grumbacher Award for first place, and that she would win four years in a row. That bit of encouragement changed her life, which is what Clinton said she hopes she can do for her students.

“I have one student who began painting at 92, and she won the City Hall competition,” Clinton said. “Everyone has amazing talents inside them.”

“I had to add in Harry,” she said. “He is the friendliest cat you’d ever see.”

Val Davis participated in the class in addition to serving as an RSVP volunteer. She said she had painted in school, but never took it up professionally.

“Art is a form of communication,” she said. “It really moves me and brings about a state of transformation.”

She described the purple tones she used as reminding her of tulips, while the black figures were birds flying through a meadow accentuated by a pale green.

“The horizontal strokes bring out the peacefulness of the water,” Davis explained.

“We are meant to create and to bring out the gifts that are endowed in us,” Davis said. “This class is the perfect setting for that.”

Third BPDA meeting on Pine Street cancelled

Richard Heath
Staff Reporter

Scheduled weeks ago, the Oct. 30 BPDA meeting on 3368 Washington St. – the third Article 80 meeting – was abruptly cancelled on Oct. 28.

The BPDA gave no explanation, but told The Bulletin two days later that the meeting was rescheduled to Nov. 7.

3368 Washington is a six-story, 236-unit fully-affordable, low and moderate-income rental residence with 157 supportive housing studios for the formerly homeless. It was first reported in The Bulletin on March 14.

Proposed by Pine Street Inn – which owns the 40,000 square-foot warehouse site near Green Street – and The Community Builders, tenants will include formerly homeless who need supportive services.

The $89 million development is dependent on layers of public financing and consequently PS/TCB is under extraordinary scrutiny.

In August the BPDA required the joint venture to submit Supplementary Information; two months after the Project Notification Form was filed on June 7. The final 264-page Supplementary report was submitted on Oct. 4 and according to the BPDA this was to be the topic of the third Article 80 meeting.

The most organized apprehension has come from the Union Avenue Neighborhood Association which on Sept. 5 submitted a six-page letter of questions complete with graphics.

Although “supportive of the intention and spirit” of the development, UA/NA wanted “more comfort about the fit, impact and viability of this large and specialized project”, as well as more “excitement, playfulness and humor” in the building itself that they thought looked like a hospital.

Nevertheless, by the close of the extended comment period on Sept. 27, 39 people were in support, 19 in opposition and eight were neutral.

3368 Washington Street is the largest supportive housing development Pine Street has done and it was planned in part to celebrate its 50th anniversary this year.

Supportive housing is the answer to homelessness, Pine Street President Lyndia Downie said in a recent interview.

To the criticism that PS/TCB was creating a “monolithic slum”, the response is that the income mix of low and moderate income was appropriate given the high percentage of market rate housing in the general vicinity.

Another critic demanded that PS/TCB “figure out how to pay for everything without relying on public subsidies that will evaporate in future years...resulting in a hellish dystopia.”

PS/TCB replied that they are highly experienced in making these buildings successful. PSI said it owns, and through some third parties, manages 850 units of supportive housing.

Union Avenue was very concerned about how the supportive housing would impact the safety and security of the community.

Pine Street replied that safety is important to the residents too since many lived in unstable and unsafe environments.

Another writer argued that the development will foster economic stress and ultimately a slum to which Pine Street responded that a mix of affordable and supportive housing is something that in their experience the formerly homeless enjoy; they family. It was just such a fit with this time of year that we wanted to have the best part of us for the holiday season. That’s what we all aspire to.”

Sweeney said the event is fun.

“Usually people are just happy during the day,” Sweeney said. “The kids, the runners, they’re all so excited at the beginning and then there’s the bunch of older kids who had trained for the 5K. They always want to be in the front row, but then they hit that first hill and it’s time to get serious.”

He added that despite cold or inclement weather, hundreds still come every year to honor his friend.

“I mean people have fun running and having a good time and we’re able to raise a good amount of money at the same time so we can do things throughout the year,” he said.

Sweeney said they also give a special prize for the first place winner and though nothing has been set in stone, they may plan to give a prize to the runner who comes in 25th place to commemorate the year.

Registration is taking place from 9:15 a.m. to 10:45 a.m. at the Irish Social Club at 119 Park Street in West Roxbury on the day of the race. Online registration closes on Saturday, Dec. 7 at 5 p.m. Winter running hats will be provided for a limited number of pre-registered 5K runners, and refreshments will be provided to all runners. The Kids’ Fun Run will start on Bellevue Street at 10:15 a.m.

liked living with people of other incomes and that economic diversity is admired by both groups of tenants.

Helen Matthews of Green Street agreed. "3368 Washington St. stands out as a model of the development we need more of," she wrote. "The strong level of affordability is important for stabilizing our neighborhood where hundreds are at risk of displacement."

A Gartland Street resident was in complete support and empathetic of those who need supportive care. "These are the kinds of things the downtrodden people will benefit from," he wrote.

One young mother said she was looking forward to meeting her new neighbors and she hoped the project would not be delayed by "NIMBYism".

A neighbor in support said supportive housing is desperately needed and is "ethically the right thing to do."

The only church leader in Jamaica Plain to respond was Rev. Ashley Weist-Liard of The First Baptist Church who wrote "we are thrilled with 3368 Washington St. as it will provide much needed affordable and supportive housing."

It shows that Jamaica Plain is an example of what a world class city can be, she said.

Dana Gonsalvez lines in Hyde Square, attends every council meeting and was once a member. He works at 31 Creighton St., a supportive housing development built by JPND on the Blessed Sacrament campus.

"I'm the night manager," he said. "What we want to do is give the residents a second chance. They pay rent. We have house rules. They act up, we talk to them. We say we're there for you when nobody else is."

well, which is designed to help Census Takers be prepared for all types of interactions they're going to have," he said.

The Census reported earlier this month that its agents have completed the results of a preliminary test run of the Census started back in the summer showed that the citizenship question had little effect on those taking the census, noticing only a dip of about 1 percent. Bennett said he feels even 1 percent is too much, and emphasized that all information given to the census is confidential and extremely well-guarded.

"The law requires the Census to keep all information confidential, Title 13 of the U.S. Code," he said. "It's a strong protection for the information we collect... It requires that the information we collect is only used to produce statistics. By law, that information is confidential and not allowed to be shared information with any federal agency, state agency or court."

Bennett added that every Census taker or Census employee must take an oath to protect that confidentiality, the breaking of which could result in five years in prison, a fine of $250,000, or both.

Despite the need for Census takers, Bennett said the office is hoping that many residents choose to voluntarily take the census, either by mail, phone, or online so they won't have to take it in person.

"We're projecting that about 80 percent of residents will respond through the first three methods," he said. "We're hoping we reach everyone in the United States. We're working with multicultural organizations and group that have been historically hard to count and a lot of research has gone into ways to help increase self response from residents."

And Bennett said there are a lot of reasons to take the Census and make sure the government has a good count of where its residents live. For one, it determines where $675 billion is allocated for communities across the country.

Bennett said the Census is expecting the U.S. total population to increase to 330 million people and 140 million households former Boston City Council President (and first woman of color to be council president) Michelle Wu came in with 41,616 votes and 20.71 percent of the vote. Dorchester native and avid hockey fan Annissa Essaibi-George came in at 34,054 percent and 16.95 percent of the vote. South Boston native Michael Flaherty came in with 33,242 votes and 16.54 percent of the vote.

The final day to tally up results is Census Day, which is slated for April 1 2020 next year. For more information and to take the Census online, go to <https://2020census.gov/>.

Those three incumbents won easily. The real contest was between Julia Mejia and Alejandra Nicole St. Guillen. Both had what amounted to 11.18 percent of the vote according to Boston's unofficial results. Mejia snuck by however at 22,464, beating St. Guillen by literally 10 votes if the unofficial results stand as of Wednesday, Nov. 6. St. Guillen has called for a recount that has yet to be decided as of the date of publication.

"I am humbled to be your first Afro-Latina immigrant woman councilwoman," she said in a statement. "This campaign was never about me though. It was always about bringing power to the people. To give voices to those who felt left out."

Dorchester native Erin Murphy came in next with 16,843 votes and 8.38 percent, Althea Garrison followed with 16,161 votes at 8.04 percent and David Halbert finished with 13,201, or 6.57 percent.

There were 66,844 total ballots cast and, taking into account the number of registered voters in the September preliminary election, is a very low figure. There were 402,536 total registered voters in the City of Boston as of September 24, and the vote total represents about 16 percent of those registered.

INFORMATIONAL MEETING

The Longfellow Area Neighborhood Association and local residents are sponsoring an informational meeting on the Centre St. traffic improvements, with a focus on the Walter and Centre St. intersection plans. The Department of Conservation and Recreation has been invited to attend and provide an update. The BPDA has been invited to attend. Faulkner Hospital confirmed they will send a representative to update us on their proposal. In recent meetings, DCR has indicated that it favors installing a signalized intersection at Walter and Centre Streets. The proposed plans of the Faulkner Hospital make this issue more timely. The Faulkner expansion is in a study mode for the next few months, so a window of time exists to work with DCR to understand how their Centre St. improvements do and do not fit into the overall effort. The meeting will be held at the Weld Hill Building of the Arnold Arboretum, 1300 Centre St., on Nov. 14, at 7:00 p.m. Please attend if you are able.

STILL LIVING IN THE 20TH CENTURY

To the Editor:
The three letters to the editor in the Bulletin last week deserve a reply. My younger friends (I am an aging bicycling Boomer) wonder why I bother, and, for that matter, marvel that I still read the local paper. I do because it is part of the essential public forum that has made our democracy successful. But I get their point; too often the viewpoints are heedless rants from people still living in the last century.

Mr. Giarrantani would have us believe that climate change is a hoax because apparently according to his understanding of science, vehicles propelled by combustion engines are not loading the atmosphere with excess climate heating carbon dioxide. Well established science backed with overwhelming evidence tells us otherwise.

Understanding this and not wanting the expense of a second automobile, young people are making the choice to walk, bike and use public transportation as much as possible. They are the face of the changing demographics in West Roxbury and other Boston neighborhoods who have made clear their desire to have safe streets to cross. Mr. Boyce's truly astounding missive suggests that important social programs such as Medicare (for seniors) and the Affordable Care Act (for the self-employed and uninsured) and the critical need to build more housing for the young people who have decided to make the Boston area their home, is the work of some sort of deep state sleeper cell. It is an echo of the diatribes against immigrants, three family houses, and the society saving Social Security program of the early 20th century. As for the last letter, what a surprise - the local Republican party voted against safety for pedestrians.

City of Boston Seeking Applicants for Boston School Committee

Mayor Martin J. Walsh today announced that applications are being accepted by the Citizens Nominating Panel, for two open positions on the Boston School Committee. The individuals selected will serve a four-year term beginning on January 6, 2020. The deadline to submit applications is Tuesday, November 12, 2019 at 11:59 p.m.

The Boston School Committee is the governing body of the Boston Public Schools. The School Committee is responsible for:

- * Defining the vision, mission and goals of the Boston Public Schools
- * Establishing and monitoring the annual operating budget

- * Hiring, managing and evaluating the Superintendent
- * Setting and reviewing district policies and practices

The seven members of the School Committee are Boston residents appointed by the Mayor to serve four-year staggered terms. The Mayor appoints members from a list of candidates recommended by a 13-member Citizens Nominating Panel composed of parents, teachers, principals and representatives of the business and higher education communities. The Committee also includes a non-voting student member of the Boston Student Advisory

The School Committee meets approximately twice per month during the school year to adopt, review and modify policies and practices that support teaching, learning and improved student achievement. With the exception of executive sessions, Committee meetings are open to the public, feature public comment periods and are broadcasted on Boston City TV.

You can find applications for the Boston School Committee online. You can also learn more about the Boston School Committee online.

All applications should be emailed to: scnominatingpanel@boston.gov or mailed or hand-delivered to the School Committee in City Hall. Please note that interviews for selected candidates will be held on November 18, 2019.
