MHMC still not convinced on 920 American Legion plan

More than 60 residents piled into the Home for Little Wanderers conference room on American Legion Highway last Thursday to hear a proposal from City Realty regarding the company's proposed project on 920 American Legion Highway.

The proposal was a rehash of a proposal presented in December, with minimal changes to the design of the building itself. City Realty representatives said they worked mostly on the drainage issues facing that area of American Legion, as District 5 City Councilor Tim McCarthy pointed out, the April storm of 1996 impacted the area severely.

"I was out here in '96 as a neighborhood coordinator, and there were people all over the place with boats trying to help people out," he said. "I remember that flood, and that's where you're getting this angst and nervousness."

Steve Sawyer of Design Consultants said they worked to improve the drainage on this project, but also looked at the problem of the Stop and Shop parking lot, which he said drained all its storm water into a culvert across the street from the plaza's gas station.

"It's 11 acres of impervious surface," he said. "What they did was they took the storm water and concentrated it into that one area."

The Charles River Spring Valley Neighborhood Association (CRSV) met last week and discussed several topics concerning the residents.

Two representatives from the Boston Climate Action Network (BCAN) came to speak of the importance of the Community Choice Energy Aggregation (CCE). The idea has been kicking around the Boston City Council for more than a year, and BCAN's Linda Hurst and Sarah Driscoll spoke to the idea.

Basically, the City of Boston currently has a purchasing deal with electricity distributor Eversource, making it the default utility for most residents in the City of Boston. The CCE would allow Boston's government to require that 5 percent more of the energy sourced to the local grid by Eversource be green renewable energy through the bulk purchasing power of the city. The city already currently requires 12 percent renewable, and BCAN representatives – along with members of the City Council – said it could help to at least stabilize energy prices.

Hurst said that currently, Eversource can change its rates about every six months, but under the new purchasing agreement through CCE, those rates would be locked in for two years. She said in many communities where CCE has been implemented, that has saved ratepayers costs; this includes a community such as Dedham, which she said has saved each ratepayer $46 over two years.

Driscoll did say, however,

Teddy Corcilus Way unveiled

Jeff Sullivan
Staff Reporter

About 20 residents came out to the unveiling of Teddy Corcilus Way over the weekend to honor and thank Corcilus for his service to the neighborhood.

Corcilus' namesake was given to the footpath at 57 Johnswood Rd., connecting that road to Brown Avenue. Residents said he took up cleaning that foot path for the residents and children – during the winter and fall seasons especially – to keep it clear and passable for everyone.

"When I was younger, I lived in the Whittier Street Housing Development and Teddy was our maintenance man," said resident and neighbor Phyllis David. "He kept that place spotless; I mean during a blizzard you'd hear him out there with the snow blower. The kids would always say 'Ma I want to go out with Teddy!'"

Parkway Kiwanis trying out second annual fundraiser

Jeff Sullivan
Staff Reporter

The West Roxbury Roslindale Kiwanis is trying out something new this year.

Usually, Kiwanis Vice President Sean Brennan said the only fundraiser they host per year is the annual auction, but he said this year they wanted to try to branch out and help more.

“It’s the same fundraising effort and money raised is going to go to all the same and similar things that our auction goes to,” he said. “The Jason Roberts Challenger League, the YMCA, children’s charities, the Catholic Memorial Forensics (debate) Team, it all goes to the same things, except we’re trying to add another fundraiser to the calendar for this year.”

Brennan said the auction can raise more than $10,000 a year for such local charities, but he said they wanted to start off small and get this fundraiser off the ground before trying to approach that number.

“Just depending on the size of the crowd, and this is something we can build on for the next year and the year after and we hope it will just get bigger and bigger – we want to raise a good amount of money because that’s what our mission is, to raise money for kids.”

Brennan said they are hosting singer Jim Plunkett this Friday, Sept. 22 at 8 p.m. at 233 Elm St. in Dedham. Brennan said Plunkett is a one-of-a-kind performer and brings his own style to any event. He said Plunkett has been making the rounds locally for years now .

“You have to see him to kind of understand,” he said, but tried to explain regardless, saying that Plunkett usually pulls out all the stops to en-tain the audience.

Brennan added that he has garnered quite the diverse following over the years.

“Even people in their 50s and 60s have seen him at some point,” he said. “He kind of starts off his thing by playing ‘Name That Tune’. He’ll hand out free beers at the beginning and he’ll start playing a tune and then he’ll stop and whoever names the song he’ll hand a beer to, and then he just rocks it to all these songs from the ‘80s, ‘90s and current, and people just love him.”

GET SLEEP TO IMPROVE YOUR MEMORY

As we all know, older adults face many obstacles (including frequent trips to the bathroom, insomnia, and sleep apnea) that stand in the way of a good night’s sleep. The good news is that addressing and treating these problems helps us feel more awake and alert during daytime hours. We also now know that during non-REM “deep sleep,” when we enter the non-dreaming restorative stage of sleep, our memories consolidate. So, when we are able to get the quality deep sleep that we need, our memory improves. Thus, it is important to adhere to a regular sleep schedule and not rely on sleep medications. Sedating the brain is not the way to get the benefits that natural sleep provides.

In general, people with poor health or chronic medical conditions have more sleep problems. Older adults will find a spirit of community that embraces the realities of aging while promoting the joys of living at DEUTSCHES ALTENHEIM. We recognize the diversity and circumstance of every resident, as we remain firmly committed to helping our seniors maintain their maximum level of dignity and independence. Please call to schedule a consultation and tour of our senior community at 2222 Centre Street, West Roxbury. “Ask about our Schrafft Pavilion for Alzheimer/Dementia Care and Edelweiss Village.”

P.S. To get a better night’s sleep, keep your bedroom cool (less than 68 degrees F); avoid excessively bright light (especially blue light from computer screens, cell phones, and tablets); and avoid caffeine and alcohol at least four hours before bedtime.

Vehicle inspection changes coming in October

Jeff Sullivan
Staff Reporter

The State of Massachusetts Department of Transportation announced earlier in the year that there will be some big changes coming to your vehicle inspection sticker as of Oct. 1.

While the inspection requirements themselves won't be changing, the method in which they are verified will be. The state is now requiring a video record of just about every aspect of an inspection, and while the upgrade will not cost consumers more – the price is staying at $35 – it will take a bit longer and will also put a larger financial strain on the mechanics themselves.

Basically, every auto service provider that does inspections will have to upgrade their systems with new computers, outfit their bays with five stationary cameras and a handheld camera. Junior Damato, of Juniors Automotive in Hyde Park, said the new system will start with a manual input of the vehicle and driver data.

“You put all the numbers in the machine, the machine takes a picture of you to make sure you're not Joe Bagadonuts, then you bring the car in, and as you're bringing the car in, it will snap a picture of the front license plate, snap a picture of you getting out of the car and snap a picture of the back license,” he said.

Damato said he felt the new rules will be an improvement for the inspection process, as it will require all mechanics to be 100 percent accurate on the inspections themselves.

Whereas in the past, a mechanic's own personal

DATA DILEMMAS

Attorney General Maura Healey has filed the nation's first enforcement action related to a recent (and massive) data breach that struck credit reporting firm Equifax.

"We allege that Equifax knew about the vulnerabilities in its system for months, but utterly failed to keep the personal information of nearly three million Massachusetts residents safe from hackers," Healey said in a statement.

The breach, reported earlier this month, potentially compromised the personal information of 143 million consumers nationwide, including nearly three million of this state's consumers.

The AG's complaint, in Suffolk Superior Court, alleges that Equifax did not maintain the appropriate safeguards to protect consumer data in violation of Massachusetts consumer protection and data privacy laws and regulations.

Proving negligence, in this case, should be pretty much a slam dunk.

Equifax, according to the complaint, left private consumer information exposed to intruders by relying on certain computer code that it knew or should have known was vulnerable to exploitation. Hackers infiltrated Equifax's computer system through a "Dispute Portal." Think about that: a means for public complaint and concern proved the weak spot in the firm's cyber-defenses.

Why, aside from the local AG angle, are we so riled up about this?

If you suffer identity theft, a compromised credit card, or other cyber-security headaches, the cause is usually transaction-specific. Not to suggest that a victim is to blame, but "someone" did "something" via an online purchase, etc. Here, with Equifax, we see a grand intrusion into our personal business by an unwanted third party.

Yes, credit ratings have a role to play. All of us who ever plan to buy a car, home, or other major purchase will have the terms and interest rates dictated by our credit worthiness.

Increasingly, some companies are even trying to tie credit ratings to employment opportunities and hiring.

The reality, however, is that members of the public rarely "hire" a firm like Equifax. We do not ask them to collect our data. We don't ask for their opinion. We don't even have much of an opportunity to question their assessments.

Simply put, and frighteningly so, a private company you know very little about has an out-sized effect on your life, liberty, and pursuit of happiness. You are nobody, unless they say you are somebody.

There are places where privatization is a great idea. Having a company act as a dumping ground for our most sensitive data is not one of them. We applaud Healey for her action, no matter how easy that decision was to make.

Our message to public officials: learn the lesson. We need them to step in where no one else can and be a cop on the beat for protecting the personal data that falls into private hands. We need the conversation about cyber-security to become one with the general public, not just a high-level, academic, and technical debate.

The state and city collect volumes of data about all of us. Like Equifax, we may not even start to comprehend the troves of personal data they have amassed. We have no doubt that local officials take the security of this data very seriously, but let's hear them tell us that, explain their protocols, and delve into contingency and enforcement plans.

It is a question of when, not if, a government data breach (federal, state, or local) will strike. Going after private firm breaches is important and necessary work, but we also need a critical eye watching the watchers. We deserve to know how prepared public officials are to protect us, even when their own data collection practices are what we need protection from.

Boston gave up its opportunity to lure the summer Olympics here, and it also cancelled car racing that was to occur downtown.

I'm not sure how many people regret the loss of either, but there are some actions that seem fit for ruing.

It's too bad the Braves left town for Milwaukee and ultimately Atlanta. Philadelphia and St. Louis also used to have American and National League teams. How could we ever have let a team with the likes of Matthews, Spahn, Jethroe, and Burdette ever depart after the 1952 season? Easy, poor attendance. The Braves average home attendance that year was 3,653, while the Red Sox average was four times larger at 14,490, having won 12 more games. Every time the Mass Pike takes me by BU's Nickerson Field, I rue the Braves' departure to Wisconsin, but I understand it.

While the Big Dig was experiencing severe cost overruns, planners were reluctant to push through their idea of a North-South rail link, connecting North and South stations, even though they could have done it then for a fraction of the price it would cost today. Imagine how much downtown traffic would be mitigated by Amtrak and Purple Line trains from the north passing underneath. North Shore commuters could alight at South Station before heading to the Seaport District and other destinations. And South Shore commuters would not reach the end of their line at Dewey Square.

A time for ruing?

My Kind of Town/ Joe Galeota

Not too many Bostonians actually attend Patriot games in distant Foxboro. If the city had let Robert Kraft site the Patriots in South Boston or in Mattapan at the site of the former state hospital, more city people would be able to work as ushers and in concessions, and the name "Boston," not "New England," would precede "Patriots."

Yes, I know the road infrastructure of Morton Street, Blue Hill Avenue and Hyde Park Avenue, as we know now it, could not support the Patriots in 02126, unless Forest Hills Station on the Purple Line had been somehow involved in the mix, but . . .)

Drivers on the Jamaicaaway know the difficulty of staying in their narrow lanes without hitting huge trees on the right or oncoming traffic on the left. Decades ago there was a traffic plan to have the Jamaicaaway one way inbound with three much wider lanes, and then outbound on the Brookline side of Muddy River but Brookline would never accept it. Every time there is a vehicular death on the Jamaicaaway, think about the one-way plan.

It is also worth regretting that the Commonwealth chose a beautiful piece of Franklin Park to build its two huge buildings of the Lemuel Shattuck Hospital. Frederick Law Olmsted must have turned over in his grave when the bulldozers savagely attacked a pristine piece of the Emerald Necklace.

One item that the city might soon rue is being a one-newspaper town. Having lost the Boston Post, the Boston Traveler, and the Boston Record-American, the city cannot afford to be a one-newspaper town. With the owner of the Red Sox now the owner of the Globe, any news about the residents living in the Fenway being justifiably upset by the noise, time extension, and expansion of the summer concerts on Yawkey Way is not reported.

And, yes, I do rue that Route 128/95 bisects a beautiful part of the Blue Hills by not having built a mile or so to the South; speaking of bisecting, it's too bad the Bussey Road does the same for the Arnold Arboretum.

Enough on ruing, or should we all take a deep breath and rue the departure of a wonderful summer.

Letters to the Editor

COME SUPPORT EFFORTS TO REDUCE CARBON EMISSIONS

To the Editor:

In this time of obvious climate disruptions from overpowering storms, fires burning ferociously in the West, record-high temperatures across the country, and faster-than-predicted sea-level rises, we should be doing all we can to reduce greenhouse gas emissions and slow climate change.

The single most immediate and significant step that the city of Boston can take to reduce our carbon emissions is to adopt Community Choice Energy (CCE), also called Community Choice Aggregation (CCA) in the more than 150 cities and towns in Massachusetts that have already embraced this initiative.

With CCE, the city's residents would benefit from the advantages of municipal bulk purchasing: the ability to negotiate better electricity rates for longer periods of time, eliminating the unpredictable rate spikes we are currently subjected to by Eversource, and also the ability to increase the amount of our electricity coming from renewable energy sources without paying more. This is a win-win for Bostonians, and the City should adopt CCE now.

You can help make this happen by attending the CCE City Council hearing on Tuesday, Oct. 3 at 2 p.m. to show your support; also call your city councilor, the at-large city councilors, and the mayor and ask them to support CCE. The time is now.

Third Rail ops out of Roslindale Substation plans

Roslindale Village Main Street Historic Boston, Inc. Peregrine Group, LLC

It is with disappointment that we share the news that restaurateur Chris Douglass no longer plans to open his Third Rail restaurant concept in the Roslindale Substation.

While we are sorry that our partnership with Chris comes to an end, we are confident that the Roslindale Substation – with its unique interior space, historic character, and prominent location in vibrant Roslindale Village – will appeal to another commercial concept, including restaurants and microbreweries. Roslindale Village Main Street, Historic Boston Inc., and Peregrine Group, LLC are moving aggressively to secure a new tenant that fits best within the business district. In the meantime, the restored interior space of the Substation will host community pop-up events and temporary uses. The Roslindale community can already look forward to a Halloween Film Series in the Substation in October. Several pop-up concepts (including art and holiday-themed) are in the works as well.

The long road to the Roslindale Substation's redevelopment is one of the great success stories of this neighborhood. The building, which was vacant since 1971, has been restored in great detail, and mechanically upgraded for commercial uses in accordance with federal and state standards. The corner of Cummins Highway and Washington Street is substantially transformed by a handsome structure, and 43 new housing units, all of which enhance the architectural fabric and vibrancy of Roslindale's commercial and civic center. Once the main floor interior is built out for a tenant, a large glass window will be installed within the majestic opening on the front facade facing Adams Park, completing the historic rehabilitation. To learn more about the project's redevelopment click here.

Craft Beer Cellar continues to operate in the ground level of the Substation, offering a wide selection of over 500 types of beer, cider and sake to Roslindale. We encourage our fellow residents to patronize this fantastic business, proudly owned and managed by a Roslindale resident.

Tenant inquiries and ideas may be directed to substation@roslindale.net.

I'm not sure that drainage design would happen now, typically what you would do these days is try to do smaller features scattered throughout the site. Spread it throughout the site so it wouldn't concentrate in on location, but unfortunately with Stop and Shop, that's exactly what happened."

Sawyer said there's a 36-inch diameter overflow pipe that collects all the storm water, which is then fed directly into the Stony Brook Culvert, which was what flooded in 1996. Project owner Josh Fetterman said they can only improve the drainage on their site and cannot help with Stop and Shop, but Sawyer said his current calculations and two infiltration systems in the new rental complex, if approved, would actually improve drainage on the site. He said on the Cummins Highway side of the building they will have three rows of 60-foot long, 48-inch diameter perforated pipe to infiltrate into the groundwater there and another smaller system under the lower parking lot on American Legion. He added they will be putting in rain gardens around the site to aide in draining and filtering the water on the site.

"We'll be reducing the flow on American Legion dramatically," he said.

Residents were still not happy about the project on the whole. Many residents pointed out that the parking ratio for the current plan was, in their eyes, not enough. The project calls for 116 parking spaces, for a parking ratio of 1.4 spaces per housing unit (85 total units, 38 one-bedroom, 39-two bedroom and eight three-bedroom). Residents said that with more than 40 two-bedroom and three-bedroom units, they felt too many people would have more than one car and exacerbate the current parking problem on American Legion Highway and the surrounding neighborhoods.

"There's not one more spot on American Legion Highway for another car," said resident Maureen Donafine. "There's just not, and you're going to be taking away a few spots (two total) with the garage entrance."

Development Attorney Jeff Drago, of Drago and Toscano Associates, said the data currently collected for Boston residents just doesn't show that new residents are coming into the neighborhoods with two or three vehicles.

"If we have any more parking, we would have more parking than most of the housing projects in the City of Boston," he said. "We can tweak that for you, but at a certain point, the Boston Transportation Department won't allow us to add more."

Resident John Sullivan said any such large development will contribute to an already overstocked neighborhood.

"Our neighborhood is trashed right now with parking problems, what are you bringing to the neighborhood? What is City Realty bringing to our neighborhood?" he asked.

Residents were still not pleased with the proposed development on American Legion Highway.

Fetterman said he will be working with the Impact Advisory Group once the project enters the Boston Planning and Development Agency (BPDA) Article 80 Large Project Review process to see what kinds of community benefits could be worked out with the city.

"I don't want to tell you what we're going to do for the neighborhood, I want you and the folks involved in the process to tell us," he said.

He was so wonderful to the people on Whittier Street."

David said the work Corcilus put in for them was remarkable.

"Back then we had good kids and Teddy kept them in line," she said. "He was there for everybody. Any time something broke in your house, Teddy was there seven days a week to fix it. He was always around, anytime we couldn't get the maintenance, Teddy was there. I just want to thank you Teddy for all the years you were there. I can't believe you did the whole project. Whittier Street consisted of Whittier, Cabot, Ruggles and Tremont, so he went around hallways everything, doing that and doing this footpath was a lot. We really appreciate it."

Resident and friend Jim Cheney said Corcilus had a tough upbringing, but that never dampened his spirits.

"He was brought up in the Catholic Home for Destitute Children, he never really had a family and they booted him out when he was 14 years old, so he got an apartment across the street and continued to work there," he said, adding that Corcilus always had an eye for serving the community.

Corcilus himself said the event was great.

"I was surprised to even see it," he said. "When I first saw it, though, I had to look and make sure they spelled my name right!"

Corcilus said he first started taking care of the path for safety reasons, but then it just kind of came into his routine.

"I did this for years and years and years and years," he said. "I just said I'll keep on doing it, just because I'm getting old doesn't mean I'll stop doing it."

Corcilus added that now he has his name on the street sign, he might let others pick up the slack.

"Maybe I'll take it easy now," he said.

Roslindale Office of Neighborhood Services representative Dan Murphy said Boston Mayor Marty Walsh happily signed off on the renaming of the footpath, formerly known as the Johnswood Path.

"Today, I'd like to give you an acknowledgment and a citation from the mayor to kick off this unveiling, so on behalf of Mayor Walsh I just want to thank you for your service," Murphy said.

Oh, most beautiful flower of Mt. Carmel, fruitful vine, splendor of Heaven, Blessed Mother of the Son of God, Immaculate Virgin, assist me in this necessity. Oh Star of the Sea, help me and show me herein you are my mother. Oh Holy Mary, Mother of God, Queen of Heaven and Earth, I humbly beseech thee from the bottom of my heart to succor me in my necessity (make request). There are none that can withstand your power. WORKSHOP TO DISCUSS HUBWAY EXPANSION

More than 70 new bike share stations planned for Boston

A Jamaica Plain workshop will be held on Saturday, Sept. 23, 10 a.m., at the Connolly Branch Library and a third will be held on Thursday, Nov.

9, 6 p.m., at the BCYF Curtis Hall Community Center. Residents are encouraged to attend the workshops and help BTDC to determine potential locations for new bike share stations in their neighborhood.

A total of 28 workshops have been scheduled between Sept. 9 and Nov. 16. The full meeting schedule can be found at boston.gov/bike-share-expansion in the 2017 Expansion Planning Workshop Schedule section. Although each workshop will focus on the neighborhood where the meeting is held, materials will be available to discuss all neighborhoods that are under consideration for expansion. BOSTON BLOOMS WITH DAFFODILS PROGRAM RETURNS

Mayor Martin J. Walsh has announced that the "Boston Blooms with Daffodils" beautification initiative will distribute 20,000 daffodil bulbs this fall to volunteers for planting on public ways citywide.

The plantings will take place in approved locations along the City's public ways on the weekends of Oct. 28 and Nov. 4. Groups with approved planting locations will be contacted by the Parks Department and given bulb pick-up instructions and dates.

Individuals, civic associations, church groups, sports leagues, scout troops, open space advocates, and parks friends are just some examples of the volunteers the Parks Department seeks to help in the "Boston Blooms with Daffodils" effort. Last year over 100 community groups planted the bulbs distributed by the City.

Anyone interested in assisting with planting can fill out a form online at www.boston.gov/boston-blooms, which asks for contact information and identification of the public space the applicant is volunteering to plant. Groups and individuals are asked to use their own tools.

Participants are also encouraged to take photos of their groups on planting days and email them to the Boston Parks and Recreation Department at parkpartners@boston.gov with "Boston Blooms with Daffodils" in the subject line. Photos will then be available for viewing at www.facebook.com/bostonparksdepartment, the Parks Department website, and submitted to local newspapers. For more information on how to participate in Boston Blooms with Daffodils, please call the Parks Department at (617) 961-3006.

Ask The Doctor

Junior Damato began servicing vehicles in 1969. He owns a 10-bay auto repair service center in Hyde Park and an 8-bay center in Middleboro. Junior is an ASE-certified Master Technician, ASE-certified L-1 and ASE-certified Natural Gas.

An Affordable Commuter Car

Recently, I drove a 2017 Mitsubishi Mirage GT powered by a 1.2 liter, 3 cylinder engine with a whopping 78 horsepower and a revised CVT transmission with sport mode.

The car is above being basic transportation. It seats four and there is plenty of room for the driver and the passengers. The audio system and large multifunction touchscreen center display are a great fit. The front seats lack a center armrest, but are heated for cold winter days. (I pulled a back muscle last week and used the seat heater on my commute to help with the pain.) Power is ample for this small car - I was never without enough power to enter or exit the highway.

This is not the old econo box of years gone by. There is electric power steering, LED and HID lights, and even a rear spoiler. The ride was smooth and quiet at all speeds, with some engine noise under full acceleration (and there is an engine sound difference with the 3 cylinder versus a 4 cylinder). Gas mileage: 37 city, 43 highway, combined average of 39 mpg. I drove the car for a week from Lakeville to Hyde Park - approximately 70 miles a day - and my gas cost was $15.94. MSRP: $16,495 with no optional equipment (destination fee: $835). The base 5-speed manual transmission Mirage's MSRP is $13,395 (plus destination fee). Engine transmission and assembly are in Thailand. Power train warranty: 10 years/100,000 miles.

Boston's own Junior Damato, "The Auto Doctor" has agreed to field auto repair questions from Bulletin and Record readers. Please forward your questions to news@bulletinnewspapers.com and we will do our best to get your questions answered.

BTF HOSTING ROSLINDALE COMMUNITY PLANNING WORKSHOP TO DISCUSS HUBWAY EXPANSION

The Boston Transportation Department is hosting a Roslindale Community Planning Workshop on Thursday, Oct. 26, 6 p.m., at the Roslindale Community Center. This expansion is one of the projects and policies established by Go Boston 2030, the City of Boston's comprehensive, long term transportation plan. A total of 28 workshops have been scheduled between Sept. 9 and Nov. 16. The full meeting schedule can be found at boston.gov/bike-share-expansion in the 2017 Expansion Planning Workshop Schedule section. that that is not always the case, though the CCE allows municipalities to put a pause on the 5 percent increased renewable requirement, such as was done in Melrose.

Beyond the limited savings, Driscoll did say the savings in greenhouse gas emissions could be massive. She said in 2009, the Renew Boston program started doing energy assessments for residents around the city and helped them to install more energy efficient systems – light bulbs, washers and dryers etc. – in their homes.

“Renew Boston has a greenhouse gas savings from its home energy assessments, and the savings from 2009 to 2013 were about 10,000 metric tons of carbon dioxide,” she said. “If we institute CCE, in the first year alone the annual reduction would be more than 37,000 metric tons of CO2 not put into the air. That’s a huge difference from a four-year period of 10,000 tons, so we’re talking about really clean air and energy.”

Driscoll added there are ancillary benefits to reducing the amount of carbon in the air.

“Solar and wind reduces asthma rates with cleaner air,” she said.

District 6 City Councilor Matt O’Malley has been pushing for the CCE in the council, and said there has been some resistance to it.

“Opponents are going to say that it’s going to cost ratepayers more, and that’s just not true,” he said, adding that Arizona cut utility rates by 50 percent by increasing renewable sources.

“This isn’t a radical idea, this has been done throughout the Commonwealth, and it’s been done on the Cape for 20 years. Not only are you benefiting the planet, but you’re also saving the ratepayers money.”

The CRSV also discussed and voted not to oppose a medical marijuana dispensary at 1524 VFW Parkway. The association voted 17-5 not to oppose the facility, ostensibly because the location, if not taken for a medical facility by Beacon Compassionate Care, could then be taken for a recreational sales facility after the July 1 hold the State Legislature has put on such shops.

“I’ll take a medical marijuana facility over a recreational any day of the week,” said CRSV President Stephen Smith. “In no way are we every going to support a recreational dispensary component of your place.”

Beacon proposed the site last year and has been making the rounds. They have already received letters of non-opposition from the West Roxbury Neighborhood Council, the 1515 West Roxbury Trailer Park Association, the West Roxbury Main Streets and the West Roxbury Civic Improvement Association. For the WRCIA at least, the concern there was also that a recreational facility could be placed there if Beacon’s facility fails. The state law requires that no marijuana facility – medical or recreational – can be within 500 feet of a school, playground, ball field or area where children normally congregate, and the recently-enacted zoning code modifications require a half-mile radius be put between medicinal dispensaries. At-Large City Councilor Michael Flaherty – who instituted the zoning code modification – said he is currently working to make that half-mile radius include medicinal and recreational facilities within the city.

With all those limitations, the 1524 VFW location would ostensibly be the only location a medical or recreational marijuana facility could go, and the neighborhood organizations recognize that, but Smith and O’Malley both asked that Beacon sign a memorandum of understanding that they would not try to go recreational after July 1. Beacon said they would sign a memorandum of understanding that they would come back to the community if that came up.

“My request, and several neighbors have had this request, is that if this does go forward, that this remain a medicinal facility and there’s an ironclad process and memorandum of understanding, like Patriot Care on Milk Street did,” O’Malley said.

Co-pastors lead dynamic worship

Newly installed Co-Pastors Abby and Enid are anything but typical pastors. They preach without notes and pray with balloons. They even sit on the carpet with children and ask them what they think about God. This past Sunday they placed a door front and center on the church altar. Using a biblical passage about Jesus knocking on the door, they asked the children and later the congregation just what Jesus might say when he knocks on a door. These answers were posted all over the door so everyone could ponder this simple, yet profound question together.

Later during the worship service the entire congregation made back to school bags filled with special school supplies for children in a local school. After the service was completed, the entire community enjoyed a festive picnic on the front lawn.

Stratford Street United

Church is a progressive Christian Church whose roots are in the American Baptist and United Church of Christ traditions. They are committed to outreach to the community; the church houses, financially supports and runs the only food pantry in West Roxbury, Rose's Bounty. They are committed to social justice and a radically inclusive welcome to everyone regardless of gender orientation, socio-economic status, education, and or race.

Brennan said the Kiwanis is dedicated to service, and gives great consideration to anyone who approaches them for funding.

"We recently had a Kiwanis meeting at the Roslindale Library, and there was a woman there who learned more about the Kiwanis and she approached us about possibly donating money for new children's books at a local school," he said. "There's a lot of causes out there that don't know about us, but when they hear about our work they then approach us. We're open to having them talk so we know exactly what we're donating to, and we almost always help them out."

The fundraiser is $25 in advance and $30 at the door. For more information, go to <https://goo.gl/oZBGWo> to see the Facebook event. Brennan also mentioned that on Nov. 4 the Kiwanis will be hosting their annual auction fundraiser as well.

LaRosa Memorial Scholarship luncheon

The Parkway Rotary Club of West Roxbury and Roslindale held its first annual Marilyn LaRosa Memorial Scholarship luncheon at West on Centre. The scholarship was renamed for long time Rotarian Chairperson Marilyn LaRosa who passed away after a long battle with cancer.

This year's recipients are exemplars of the Parkway's scholars and humanitarians. Liam McDonough of West Roxbury was selected and he attended Boston College High School and was active in Cross Country, Indoor and Outdoor Track, and he participated in Holy Name Parish Youth Services. He is planning to attend Villanova University in the fall majoring in electrical engineering.

When asked about the scholarship, Liam said, "I am really thankful for this."

Francis Rose of West Roxbury attended Roxbury Latin School and was co-president of Habitat for Humanity and President of the Ecology Club. He also participated in the Glee Club and varsity Football, Basketball, and Lacrosse.

Marilyn LaRosa was a local Rotarian and humanitarian. She was also the owner of LaRosa Real Estate. In her memory, the Parkway Rotary Club of West Roxbury and Roslindale have renamed their education scholarship the Marilyn LaRosa Memorial Scholarship.

Vehicle Inspection

opinion a vehicle’s adherence to the inspection codes would be the deciding factor as to whether or not it passed inspection that year, now there will be no wiggle room.

Damato said though that the new verification system will swing both ways, and will stop mechanics from mistakenly rejecting vehicles as well.

“A lot of guys didn’t do a 100 percent efficient inspection or, on the other end of it, some people would say you need some front end work for instance when you didn’t need any,” he said. “So let’s say for instance you bring your car in and they say ‘aw jeez, your wheel is falling off.’ If your wheel was falling off truly, well I would take a picture of it so when you go back to the registry and say ‘oh he’s trying to jerk me around,’ they could go right in and look at the picture. It’s live data that gets recorded to them, the pictures are only on when they are doing the inspection, as soon as the inspection is done, the cameras go off.”

Damato said the new documentation process for the inspections will only have a bigger time constraint on the consumer experience itself. “It’s definitely an improvement, of course it is,” he said. “It’s going to be a little bit more time-consuming, because what we need to do is to get you in, we take a handheld camera, we hit the front license plate, we hit the vehicle identification number on the car, we hit the speedometer, and then we hit the rear license plate. Those are all extra things that we now need to do, so it’s going to be a little bit more time consuming.”

But from the business side of things, Damato said the new requirements will put a strain on his pocket.

“The other thing we all complained about the last time around the rodeo when they raised the stickers from $30 to $35, we got a dollar, the state got the rest,” he said. “Right now we’re still $35, and I think I’m cutting these guys a check for about $8,700 for that machine. The last time we had a sticker change – our system went into effect in October 2008 – we had to buy (the old system) prior to that too.”

The new regulations will now also require commercial vehicles to be charged an hourly rate for inspections rather than a flat rate.
