Walk for the Poor expands its influence

Jeff Sullivan
Staff Reporter

The ninth annual St. Vincent de Paul Society Walk for the Poor attracted hundreds of local residents wishing to help those in the community on Sunday, Oct. 21.

The walk was created to benefit residents in the parish of the Holy Name Church in West Roxbury, but organizer Paul Clark said that this year they've expanded into other areas. He said St. John Chrysostom in West Roxbury, Sacred Heart in Roslindale, Our Lady of Lords in Jamaica Plain and Most Precious Blood in Hyde Park also participated.

"This year we're expecting a big increase in participation, as we've been fortunate enough to have four other parishes join us," he said. "They're all publicizing it in their own parishes, bringing their own walkers and they're raising their own money. The money they raise is going to go to their own communities. Those parishes might stay

Rozzie transportation meeting focuses on parking

Jeff Sullivan
Staff Reporter

Last week on Oct. 18, District 5 City Councilor Tim McCarthy and the Boston Transportation Department (BTD) held an informational meeting on the transportation changes to Roslindale Village.

The impetus behind the meeting were complaints from local business owners on the placement of several flex post "street diets" designed to slow down traffic. The street diets were implemented on the Washington Street side of the Square, both along South Street and Washington. The idea was to slow down oncoming traffic to help reduce the risk of traffic fatality, one of which occurred on South Street several years ago.

Residents were also concerned that the bus stop on South Street and Taft had been moved from in front of Birch Flower Shop further up South Street.

Owner of Wallpaper City, Russell Flynn, said he has seen firsthand buses left helpless when someone parks at the bus stop illegally. The bus has to block traffic coming down South Street, which in turn blocks traffic all the way down Washington.

"I'm witnessing where I'm right across the street where the bus used to pull in next to the medical building. A lot of times you'd have a car or truck illegally parked and the bus was at a 20 degree angle," he said.

Before the move and the flex posts, drivers were able

Council accepts more than $100 million for greenspace

Jeff Sullivan
Staff Reporter

The Boston City Council voted on Oct. 17 to accept and expend $105.4 million from the surplus property disposition fund to complete construction of the city's open spaces in the Emerald Necklace and the Boston Common. The funds will also aide the Old Colony housing community in South Boston and the Orient Heights Development in East Boston.

District 9 City Councilor and Ways and Means Committee Chair Mark Ciommo said the funds are divided up for greenspace into the Boston Common, Franklin Park, the Greenway, and the completion of the Emerald Necklace. He said there is $55.4 million appropriated for capital projects and will be combined with $1.6 million in the fiscal year 2019 capital budget, and will include $23 million specially for Franklin Park, $23 million for the Boston Common and $11 million for the Emerald Necklace. There is also $35 million for the BHA, $25 million for Old Colony and $10 million for Orient Heights.

Ciommo said $15 million will be set aside for new trust funds divided into three separate funds,

$5 million for the enhanced maintenance of the Boston Common, Franklin Park and the Greenway. Ciommo said the funds have come out of the sale of the Winthrop Square Garage, which was purchased by Millennium Partners last month. Millennium paid $165 million for the whole site and the $104 million is the "down payment" to the city.

"This order represents a rare opportunity to fund important capital projects in our city, and it provides greenspaces and outdated housing developments as well as invests money into the maintenance and care of our parks in perpetuity," Ciommo said.

McMann honored with community

Mary Ellen Gambon
Staff Reporter

Grace McMann became the 20th recipient of the Hermena Clark Community Service Award on October 18. In many ways, it was a homecoming for McMann, a former employee of 21 years, and the atmosphere was like a family reunion.

The award, presented by the Greater Roslindale Medical and Dental Center's (GRMDC) board of directors, was given at the organization's annual meeting and buffet dinner, held at the Boston Lodge of Elks in West Roxbury. The Board is a corporate entity called the Greater Roslindale Health Organization, Inc., (GRHO), and members were simultaneously elected that evening.

"We have wanted to give this award to Grace for all of the outstanding volunteer work she has done, even as an employee," said former long-time executive director Barbara Lottero, who served in that capacity for 37 years. "However, because of the rules, we had to wait until after she was retired and nominated by someone."

"The excitement here tonight is very palpable," Courtney Urick, the current executive director at GRMDC said as she began her presentation. "Grace is a role model for all of us."

McMann began her career at the medical center in 1981, when it was housed in the current Registry of Motor Vehicles building on Cummins Highway. She was a pediatric nurse practitioner, eventually acting as a preceptor for students in the field as they moved through the ranks.

Her greatest achievement, and the one for which McMann was given the award, was starting the "Reach Out and Read" program at the medical center. She served as its coordinator for more than 25 years, including five years after her retirement in 2012.

"For 25 years, I put thousands of books into the hands of our young patients," McMann said. "We had books for all ages waiting for them in the waiting room to encourage them to read. At each annual wellness check, we gave the kids a book to take home."

Gina Collins, who nominated McMann for the award, gave a tear-filled speech describing her dedication to the GRMDC and its child patients. She also reflected on McMann's personal battle as a breast cancer survivor.

"I started working with Grace in 2006, and we were both in the pediatric unit where she started the Reach Out and Read Program," she said. "When she sadly retired, parents and teachers still asked about Grace and about donating books to the program."

Collins said McMann's devotion to helping children is a "lost art" in today's culture.

"I really feel like Grace's love is a legacy for the children of the health center," she said. "She canvassed the neighborhood for gently used books for them. She reached out to local book stores for donations. When they came in for their annual wellness check-ups, the children were excited. They would ask, 'What kind of book will Grace give me this year?'"

"I don't accept this award for myself," said McMann after hugging Collins at the podium. "All of the people here were more than coworkers to me. But I also want to accept it on behalf of Mary Rourke and Sydney Brodie, who are no longer with us. This is Grace McMann, signing off from extension 183."

In addition to the award, McMann was presented with a resolution from Boston City Councilor Tim McCarthy by Geourntas. She also received a resolution from U.S. Senator Elizabeth Warren, the first time this honor was bestowed on a Hermena Clark recipient.

"I was collecting books from everywhere," McMann said after the ceremony. "I had a great relationship with the old Borders bookstore manager in Braintree before it closed down. Now I get them from Barnes & Noble in Braintree and Amazon at Legacy Place in Dedham."

WHAT WINTER?

Forget what a famous poet once said about April: September is the cruelest month. It is the month of transitions. It is a month of dying and grey skies. It is the time of year when the warm winds of summer finally give in to the cold air that will fill our lungs for months to come.

Once again, we in Boston do not care about any of that. The Red Sox are bracing 40-degree winds to bring us the “summer classic.”

If a local sports fan was to wisely bet money on what local franchise would win their respective championship, the smart bucks would nearly always go in favor of the New England Patriots. They have done it many times before; so many, that we are indeed spoiled. The Sox, on the other hand, have shaken off whatever “curse” book writers could try to conjure, to win multiple titles of their own. The historic success of the Bruins and Celtics, combined with their future prospects, add to how fortunate we are here.

With one win already under our belts, the World Series is off to a great start. We know full well, however, that just as leaves flutter from trees and icy air rolls in, that disaster is always a strike away. Nothing is won until all is won. It is an attitude born of equal parts work ethic and hard lessons of the past.

So, Red Sox fans, we toast you for your hope, your realism, and stress strategies. We toast your loyalty, faithfulness, and ability to always make “the right call” the next morning. We toast your resiliency, ability to scoff at what the temperature says inside that little ballpark of a ballpark.

We applaud that spark of life that helps us all cope with a rough change of seasons.

Let us all hope for a good season, and a series that sees our streets joyous, and safe. If we are very fortunate, all of this is ultimately a trial run for more rings, Duck Boats, and banners. At the very least, let’s walk away from the 2018 season with fond memories and a chant promising to come back for more next year.

Have fun, everyone.

Charlie, we hardly knew ye

Until Ken Burns and Lynn Novick’s classic television series about Vietnam, narrated in stentorian tones by the legendary Peter Coyote, aired on television for a half dozen nights about a year ago, few Bostonians realized that a Boston Public School administrator endured so much in the battlefields of that country. While some may have been aware of his background, most were oblivious of Roger Harris’ grueling life in the military.

And so it was with a neighbor. His house was not that close to ours but nevertheless he was a friendly neighbor in Precinct 6. And what a backstory to Charlie O’Neil’s 72-year life!

To many he was “just” a police officer. It’s always nice to have a cop in the general neighborhood, just as it is nice to have a mechanic, plumber, electrician, carpenter, nurse, and firefighter (doctors always seem to live in the suburbs) living nearby: you never know when you might need some

My Kind of Town/

quick advice or thoughtful action.

Before he could see his new grandchild, Charlie died on October 10th of this year after a bout—or should I say two bouts—with cancer. The secondary fight with cancer was a result of Agent Orange, so you might infer where this piece is heading.

Charlie served with the Army 1st Infantry in Vietnam. While serving our country (and fighting for the country of Vietnam against communist terrorists), he was the recipient of a Bronze Star Medal with a “V” for valor, two Bronze Service Stars, a Purple Heart, Presidential Unit Citation and the Vietnamese Cross of Gallantry—the receipt of all of which were unknown to many of us.

After leaving the service, he became a state trooper. Following six years as a “statie,” he joined the Boston Police Department, rising to the rank of sergeant. Before retiring, he spent most of his career working in Special Operations and driving a motorcycle.

With all these awards for valor garnered in Southeast Asian, there is no doubt that if a thief were breaking into my house, our family would have wanted Charlie O’Neil or some clone of his to be the responding officer.

May you rest in the peace you so well deserve, Charlie.

Applications being accepted for Boston School Committee

Martin J. Walsh today announced that applications are being accepted by the Citizens Nominating Panel, for two open positions on the Boston School Committee, opening in January 2019. The deadline to submit applications is November 13, 2018.

The Boston School Committee is the governing body of the Boston Public Schools. The School Committee is responsible for:

- * Defining the vision, mission and goals of the Boston Public Schools;

- * Establishing and monitoring the annual operating budget;

- * Hiring, managing and evaluating the Superintendent; and

- * Setting and reviewing district policies and practices

The seven members of the School Committee are Boston residents appointed by the Mayor to serve four-year staggered terms. The Mayor appoints members from a list of candidates recommended by a 13-member Citizens Nominating Panel composed of parents, teachers, principals and representatives of the business and higher education communities. The Committee also includes a non-voting student member of the Boston

Student Advisory Council.

The School Committee meets approximately twice per month during the school year to adopt, review and modify policies and practices that support teaching, learning and improved student achievement. With the exception of executive sessions, Committee meetings are open to the public, feature public comment periods and are broadcasted on Boston City TV.

Applications for the Boston School Committee can be found online <https://www.bostonpublicschools.org/domain/162>.

ENOUGH ALREADY WITH DNA DISCUSSIONS

To the Editor:

As we close in on what could be the most important midterm election in decades, I so wish that the whole controversy over whether or not US Senator Elizabeth Warren is or isn’t a Native American was over.

The announcement that she had a DNA test done proved that somewhere far in her family’s distant past she indeed did have some Indian blood as her family’s oral history had kept alive in generations of her family’s life.

She now has proven she has Native American in her DNA, but as many Native American tribes state DNA does not alone make you a Native American. Most Americans of European origin also have some low level Native American DNA.

I believe the decision to use her DNA findings as a TV campaign commercial only made matters politically worse for her. However, DNA should have never been a campaign issue from the get-go. Her handling of it now only keeps the Council looking to rezone for marijuana shops and recovery centers

Jeff Sullivan
Staff Reporter

The Boston City Council is looking to make sure that new marijuana dispensaries, bars, liquor stores and recovery centers are not placed next to each other moving forward.

District 1 City Councilor Lydia Edwards said the measure would have to first define what constitutes a recovery center and then figure out what is an acceptable distance for each facility to be from each other.

“We are not blind to the facts that Boston passed overwhelmingly the legalization of marijuana and making sure that recreational marijuana is accessible in our neighborhoods,” she said. “So as the conversations continue, what I’m seeing is a theme in at least my neighborhood, which is where the location of these places are going to go. This came to a head at a very heated discussion recently in with us in the years to come, or this might just be a training ground for them to have their own events in the future.”

Clark said they raise thousands of dollars at every event to help residents pay for food and necessities in the community.

“The funds vary by years, but generally it’s been between $7,000 to $12,000 a year,” he said. “It’s been growing every year and the weather has always cooperated. There’s a lot of good we do, people see it every week. We help if people need money for paying bills, basic needs, fuel assistance, food or anything like that.”

Clark said the community has grown to support the walk every year and he’s happy they are able to help so much.

“It feels great. When we do stuff to help people, you know we’re just doing it for ourselves,” he said. “We’re doing it for Christ and we’re doing it as representatives of the church community, and it feels good that we have so much support. It’s not just us, it’s the whole parish community. People see us doing well and they want to help. It’s a great thing.”

Resident Patricia Itri said she finds it difficult with her hectic schedule to find time to help raise money for the causes she believes in, but said this was one of the events she makes time for.

“I mean I work full-time at the West Roxbury VA, and it’s very difficult for me unless I donate a card for the holidays or buy a ham or something, or give somebody money, but working Monday through Friday it’s very hard to find some way to help out on the weekdays,” she said. “I want to give back somehow, it’s the least I could do. I have to do something as a way to say thank you.”

Father Marty McNulty of the Holy Name Parish said he has been going to the planning meetings for the event and is happy to finally see it come to fruition.

“I go to the meetings every week and I think this is great,” he said. “Hopefully we get more and more people to show up, as Paul was saying it raises thousands of dollars for those in need, so it’s a great event.”

Residents, Suzane McDermot and Chloe Lendaro said this was their first time coming to the event, as St. John’s had just joined.

“We had a member of the St. Vincent de Paul come to one of our gatherings and we found out really where the money goes to in the community,” said Lendaro. “It goes to the children and the parents and we thought it was great for the children and great for us so why not?”

Younger residents from St. John’s, Jack MacIver, Aiden Finnigan, Connor Donovan, Fion Ryan, Mike Lendaro and Sam O’Brien all said they were amazed at the support the community throws behind the event.

“We decided to come out and help out however we can, and I think it’s a solid cause,” said Finnigan. “I mean it’s helping a lot of people.”

“There’s a lot of people in need,” said Ryan.

Resident Elizabeth Burke pointed out that the event doesn’t discriminate solely on neighborhood lines, and will help nearly anyone who asks.

“I mean the boundaries are shaky; we’re not going to tell someone we’re not going to help them because they live in Holy Name or Sacred Heart, we all do what we can,” she said.

Resident Mary Ann Cronin added she’s happy the organization can donate as much as it can to the cause.

The wonderful thing about St. Vincent de Paul is there is no overhead, no administrators, so everything that’s raised goes to families in the community.”

East Boston where we have one of the largest facilities, North Suffolk Mental Health, which deals with substance abuse and mental health issues. Next door, literally the next door, a lease was taken out by a recreational marijuana facility.”

Edwards said she spoke with the owner of the dispensary and asked them if they talked to the direct abutters and North Suffolk Mental Health and the answer was no.

“I’m not trying to put in red tape or further convolute the access in this burgeoning industry, but the fights are happening, the tears are flowing, and people are intense about this,” she said. “It’s a citywide conversation we need to have.”

At-Large City Councilor Annissa Essaibi-George said that defining what a mental health treatment and recovery center is will be a challenge. Edwards pointed out earlier that a recovery house is actually designed to be “near temptation,” but a recovery center is different. Edwards said that it’s designed to get someone seeking treatment away from their addiction, and Essaibi-George said she wants to be clear in the language of any potential zoning amendment.

Essaibi-George also said the City of Boston does have the authority to amend the current zoning.

“Currently, as we all know we have a buffer zone that prevents establishments from opening within 500 feet of schools and within a half mile of other cannabis establishments; and this conversation is one that we certainly can’t wait to have,” she said. “Many of us have already heard of proposed establishments in many of our neighborhood and civic association groups. Many of them are ready to open soon.”

District 6 City Councilor Matt O’Malley pointed out that originally for medical marijuana, the process was dependent on district city councilors to hold hearings and bring forth proposals accepted by the community for the council to vote on. He said while the administration is well within its right to take that process, he felt the council should keep an eye on these proceedings.

“I think it’s important that this body again exerts its influence in our understanding of the neighborhoods. I would argue that we know our neighborhoods better than many, so

I think this is an important conversation to have and I would even argue that we look at other criteria in terms of zoning code changes in terms of placement of these facilities,” he said.

The council will be hosting a hearing on this issue soon.

dren patients at the GRMDC make up the rest of the donors, she added.

“We’ve had books donated from baby showers, children’s birthday parties, bar mitzvahs, my friends’ book clubs, and Christmas parties, with a bring a book instead of a gift theme,” said the Quincy resident.

McMann said she considers the GRMDC community a family, which was extremely important during her battle with breast cancer.

“I will always be grateful for the tremendous support I received from staff and families alike when I battled breast cancer eight years ago,” she said.

Since her retirement, McMann continues to serve on the Patient and Family Care Council at Dana Farber in Weymouth. She also became the moderator for an online support group, “WhatNext,” for patients diagnosed with breast cancer.

The Hermena Clark Award was named after a well-known community activist in Roslindale who passed away in 1998. She was a caregiver to more than 60 foster children, many of whom she adopted. After her death, the board decided to memorialize her contributions to Roslindale, Hyde Park and West Roxbury to someone “who has unselfishly served the health needs of the low and moderate income community.” The winners also have been exemplars of volunteer service in their endeavors.

“The Hermena Clark Award has gone to people doing great things in our communities,” according to board president Alex Geourtas. “Our clients could not be served without the great support of our community.

Past recipients include West Roxbury community activist Stephen Smith, Boston Police Superintendent Nora Baston, Sister Nancy Braceland and Roslindale community activist and Roslindale Parade coordinator Tom Donahue.

Anyone interested in dropping off new or gently used books for kids and teens can do so at GRMDC, 4199 Washington Street, Roslindale.

Prayer to the Blessed Virgin
(Never known to fail!)
Oh, most beautiful flower of Mt. Carmel, fruitful vine, splendor of Heaven, Blessed Mother of the Son of God, Immaculate Virgin, assist me in this necessity. Oh Star of the Sea, help me and show me herein you are my mother. Oh Holy Mary, Mother of God, Queen of Heaven and Earth, I humbly beseech thee from the bottom of my heart to succor me in my necessity (make request). There are none that can withstand your power. Oh Mary, conceived without sin, pray for us who have recourse to thee (three times). Holy Mary, I place this cause in your hands (three times). Say this prayer for three consecutive days and then you must publish and it will be granted to you.
Grateful Thanks, M.E.B.

Join the party.

You're invited to our Grand Opening in Roslindale.

to go around the bus, but that is no longer the case. Residents also pointed out that drivers also have nowhere to go to allow ambulances through. BTD Director of Planning Vineet Gupta said they will be sending out a notice to ambulance drivers that they are allowed to drive over the flex posts, as they pop right back up, but residents pointed out that most drivers aren't going to run over a flex post for an ambulance because they think it could damage the vehicle.

"I'm literally here 24/7," said property manager Alex Castroni. "I walk my dog over at Adams Park, and there was an incident of an ambulance coming up and we had that double lane and everyone respected it. I stood up and watched an ambulance recently that couldn't get up the street."

"Whatever changes in the Square were made, they were done so because (the BTD) believed they were the right thing to do," McCarthy said. "The good thing here is nothing is set in stone."

BTD Transportation Planner Charlotte Fleetwood said the move of the bus stop took away a net loss of three parking spaces, and some illegal spots people were using before the BTD extended the crosswalks in the area.

Resident Robert Orthman pointed out that those changes were made to slow down drivers in the Square, and for a good reason.

"There has been significant support from the community for these changes from people who walk in the area," he said. "That corner has been a known problem. Cars fly around that corner and those flex posts out there have made a difference so that the drivers can now see you when you try to cross...It has to be stated that a person was killed there. There have been near-misses and there have been significant issues and people want this stuff."

The business owners in attendance also brought up the issue of parking in the Square. Many of them said they see vehicles ignoring the two-hour limit and want to see some better enforcement. Resident Chris Broderick pointed out that increased development creating fewer parking spaces has created a parking crunch in the neighborhood. He pointed out there used to be parking when Roche Brothers was in the Square or when the RMV was a movie theater. He said that's all gone now.

"Those parking spots are gone and those need to be considered when they're doing more building," he said.

Fleetwood said that no new changes will be implemented until there is at least one more community meeting with residents, to be announced shortly, though she did say there were plans to move more bus stops around the Square which could impact parking spaces. One resident suggested placing a green-topped garage at the Taft Parking lot.

"Part of the problem is that a lot of people don't want to pay for parking at all,"

McCarthy said. "The problem with the meters is that business owners can't park their own cars in front of their businesses, which I guess they shouldn't... If you go to Dedham Center now they just redid the whole thing and they have a parking lot with one board. You put your debit card in and you pay for 45 minutes and if you're not gone by then you're going to get whacked for $20."

McCarthy said the solution to this may be a hybrid of a program the council is currently working on. He said at-home care nurses are currently not able to park without getting a parking ticket in resident-only spots throughout the neighborhoods of their patients. He said the council is working on temporary placards for these nurses, which give dates and times they can legally park in resident spaces. He said they may be able to work out something like that for the businesses and their employees, but then he said they get into the argument of which businesses gets more placards.

Roslindale Business Group President John Malley asked for more enforcement from the Boston Police, and Boston Police Department District E-5 Sgt. Scott O'Marra said they have at least one officer patrolling the Square during the day on foot.

"We'll add to our patrols, but the captain gives us 16-hours a day officers who walk the streets and there is enforcement there," he said. "We have two full-time officers where that's their full-time job."

The BTD will host an update meeting in the future, which will be posted in the calendar of this publication when it is announced.

YMCA BASKETBALL JUNIOR CELTIC'S YOUTH DEVELOPMENT LEAGUE

Calling all youth basketball players! The YMCA of Greater Boston, in partnership with the Boston Celtic's Shamrock Foundation, is kicking-off of a new youth basketball development league for 1st through 4th graders. All YMCA members are invited to play in the eight-week program, which starts Nov. 3, at select YMCA branch locations. Registration is open now through Oct. 31.

The goal of the league is to teach youth players the values of the Boston Celtics with an emphasis on health. The clinic schedule includes a mix of large group activities and exercises, small break out drills, friendly competitions and improvement-based games. How it works: Premiere youth basketball coaches will divide participants into instructional and recreational teams based on age. A current Celtics player and other VIPs will be in attendance to engage with players and participate in activities. Sportsmanship, positive attitude, work ethic and primarily FUN is encouraged throughout the season. Each participant will receive a special edition Jr. Celtics shooting shirt and team photo. For more information, to register, or to see if and when a clinic will be offered at a YMCA of Greater Boston branch near you, visit: <http://ymcaboston.org/programs>.

BCYF CAMP JOY WINTER PROGRAM NOW ACCEPTING APPLICATIONS

Boston Centers for Youth & Families (BCYF), the City of Boston's largest youth and human service agency, is now accepting applications for the Camp Joy Winter Program to Boston residents with disabilities between ages 8 and 22. For twelve years, the program has provided structured, weekly opportunities on Saturdays for participants and their families to make new friends, have fun, learn and grow. BCYF has provided thousands of children and youth with special needs with enriching opportunities through Camp Joy which has been operating a summer program since 1946. The Winter Program is an extension of Camp Joy, focusing on the same principles of inclusion, learning, and fun. Both Camp Joy and Winter Camp Joy are led by trained, highly skilled program staff who create a safe and nurturing environment for participants. While this program is specifically available for residents with disabilities, it is also open to all youth between the ages of 8 and 14.

The program will run two Saturdays a month (except for holiday weekends) from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. at BCYF Curtis Hall Community Center in Jamaica Plain. The program is scheduled to run from October 20 through March 30. The cost per child for the entire length of the program is $150. Program participants must be between the ages of 8 and 22, be able to interact in a 4:1 participant to staff ratio and be a Boston resident (proof of residency will be requested). Transportation is not provided and a completed application is required. For more information and the application please go to Boston.Gov/BCYF-Camp-Joy or call 617-635-4920 x2402.

Trick-or-Treat on Centre Street returning for sixth year

Jeff Sullivan
Staff Reporter

Parkway In Motion's (PIM) Trick-or-Treat on Centre Street is coming back for its sixth year in the neighborhood of West Roxbury, and PIM President Dave Giordano says this year should be better than ever. "It's going on back to like 2012 and this feels great," he said. "I think people in the community really look forward to the event, and it's a great to get the whole community out in costume." The event starts at 11 a.m.

their individual neighborhoods, this event is able to bridge those gaps and bring everyone together. "It's a chance to celebrate Halloween with the wider return from trick or treating up and down Centre, that's when it struck me 'wow, there are lot of people here.' It's like more than 1,000 kids participated, and, hopefully, this at Billings Field on Oct. 27. From there, kids are encouraged to trick-or-treat up Centre Street to get candy from the myriad of participating businesses. The event is one of several PIM hosts every year to celebrate the community. PIM hosts the annual Easter Egg Hunt at Millennium Park, as well as the Kid's Run Club, Legend Basketball and the Parkway Cup. Several of these events are to raise money for the others, as well as for the group's scholarship program. Giordano said this event was specifically to celebrate the community, and he's glad to see it grow every year. He said while kids get to traverse community, as opposed to the neighborhoods the kids might do on the night of Halloween," he said. "We've got businesses participating going up and down the street," Giordano said. "We start at just about LaGrange and Centre and go all the way up to the West Roxbury Rotary. All those businesses are participating and some businesses not on the route will be having tables at Billings, the Hastings Street Lot or the Library as well." Giordano said it's been great to see the event grow through the years. "It's been going great and it's all thanks to the fundraising we do at the Community Night and the Golf Tournament," he said. "I think the last couple of years we've been at Holy Name, but last year we were at Billings and just seeing the number of people at Billings when they year the weather cooperates again." The event will also feature free pizza for the kids involved as well as face painting and a DJ. "PIM pays for everything with funds we raise throughout the year," he said. "We ask people to register online, you don't have to pay to attend, it's just to get a headcount so we can estimate how much candy to buy." PIM also provides academic scholarships to students in the Parkway, and has provided $55,000 in scholarships since 2014. In February of this year, they also started the now annual Michael Kennedy Memorial Scholarship for $5,000 and had 10 other PIM Scholarships for $1,000 each. Miracle Prayer

Dear Heart of Jesus, in the past I have asked You for many favours. This time, I ask you this very special one (mention favour). Take it, dear Heart of Jesus, and place it within Your own broken heart where Your Father sees it. Then, in His merciful eyes, it will become Your favour, not mine. Amen. Say for three days, promise publication and favour will be granted.

EDITORIAL DECISION MISLEADING

To the Editor:

This letter serves as constructive criticism to the letter presented by this newspaper on October 18, 2018 from the District 5 City Councilor regarding the proposed 500 unit complex on Sprague Street in Readville. First, the Editor placed the word “opposes” in the caption for the councilor’s letter, when indeed, that word had never appeared in the text. He, instead, had expressed “I will not be supporting this project”. This is a significant difference as the person not supporting a matter can, at the same time, not be opposing the same matter. Our State Rep., State Senator, and a Councilor At Large have been on record from the beginning of this process, some two years ago, as vehement opponents in support of their Readville constituents. In general, we are somewhat pleased that the District Councilor has taken his recent stance but, without doubt, it is full opposition that is expected.

The councilor explains that “We have tracks (sic) of land unlike anywhere in the City of Boston”. It is presumed he meant tracts of land and these tracts have proven to be valuable in luring attractive light industries to this region due to the access to freight rail, commuter rail, and state highways. Some of these companies were recently forced out of their former sites due to impending development proposals and it is good that Readville can accommodate this diverse workforce, as not all workers in the city will be qualified for employment in “high tech” at the Seaport District.

Just a half a dozen years ago the BRA, under the Menino Administration, monitored a new zoning article for Hyde Park and this area retained the light industrial classification for the reasons described above and because this community was in full support. The current administration should not be allowing quality of life in the community to be jeopardized by outside interests.
